LONDON — An ambitious German program, calling for a reich colonial domain in Africa and prior rights to Rumanian wheat and Hungarian oil exports, has been formulated by Chancellor Adolf Hitler as his price of European peace, International News Service learned today.

This future German foreign policy, which gives Hitler's minimum requirements for preservation of peace, now is in the hands of the British and French governments.

Sent Paris, London.

In it the fuehrer makes sweeping demands for a solid bloc of territory in Africa, Central European resources that would vastly increase German power in time of war and the right to build naval and military bases without restriction unless Britain and France accept similar limitations.

The German policy was conveyed verbally to Paris and London, International News Service learned, through a high intermediary, in the guise of what Hitler believes to be prerequisites for a settled European program.

This program comes under the four headings which follow in their order of importance:

1. Colonies
2. Trade expansion.
3. Limitation of armaments and prohibition of certain types of aerial bombing.
4. A currency agreement in which the United States would be included.

Bright Spots In Business

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — An additional 750 employes will be put to work in the Springfield plant of International Harvester company next Tuesday, Robert M. Watkins, superintendent, announced today. He said that 660 were added to the payroll in the last four weeks. When the re-employment program is completed 3,000 will be at work.

DEARBORN, Mich.—(AP)— Edsel Ford predicted today that production at the Ford plant for 1939 will show a maximum 50 per cent increase over 1938. Joining with his father, Henry Ford, in forecasting a long business upturn, he estimated as the company's 1939 line was previewed that output for this year throughout the industry would far exceed that of last year.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The commerce department reported today that U. S. exports rose during September to $246,361,000, resulting in an export trade balance of $78,710,000. Imports during the month amounted to $167,651,000, a slight rise from the August figure of $165,541,000 but less than the September, 1937 figure of $233,142,000.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Operations of the Republic Steel Corp. today had reached the highest point in more than a year as steel was poured from the 11th open hearth furnace at the Corrigan-McKinney plant.

PINNED UNDER MACHINE

DEFIANCE—(INS)— Pinned beneath a 2,500-pound drill press and jack when the machine toppled from a truck, Martin Eugene Snyder, 45, workman for the Defiance Screw Machine Products company, was reported in a "very serious" condition at Defiance hospital today.

Will There Be Any Old Age Pension?

Ferguson Says No, But Allison Says Ohio Can Pay Share.

Old age pension checks for Ohio's aged—including 1,200 pensioners in Richland county—were being written today, but there was no assurance that any actual payments would be made.

The federal government was still withholding its last quarter payments to Ohio (the federal government pays half of the pensions) and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, insisted the state had no funds to pay its half of October pensions.

However, Finance Director Ray Allison insisted that there were sufficient funds in the pension account to pay the state half of the pensions for this month.

Ferguson's announcement that state funds were insufficient contained a blast at Governor Martin L Davey. Ferguson charged that "Davey's mismanaged liquor department had not provided the necessary funds." (Liquor department receipts are used, in part, for pension payments).

Checks Being Written.

Mayson Hayhurst, in Ferguson's office, said the task of writing 112,000 pension checks for October was underway, after Allison's announcement that there were sufficient funds. He added, however, that unless the federal funds are forthcoming, the checks would have to be rewritten for only Ohio's 50 per cent share.

In Mansfield, M. W. Conley, head of the county division of aid for the aged, said he had heard nothing of a lack of state funds.

"I hope they can get the situation cleared up in time to pay the pensions, for if they don't, I can't see how some of these aged people are going to live," he said.

The normal Richland county payment is about $26,000 per month, and October checks are due this week. If the federal government continues to withhold its share, the average payment will be cut from $22 to $11. And if Ferguson's assertion that the state has no money to meet payments proves to be correct, there will be nothing at all.

Allison, however, was emphatic in stating that Ohio had enough money to pay its share.

AWAIT PWA OK

Schools to Launch Building Program in Few Days.

Final approval of the contract for construction of a $25,000 shop addition at Senior high school was sought today from PWA officials at Columbus to permit the start of construction on the project before the deadline next Monday.

Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools and Charles Conklin, architect for the building addition, were in Columbus to confer with PWA officials and to ask approval of certain options in the contract which would permit the school board to keep the building cost within the $25,000 estimate

John W. Ness, Mansfield contractor, who was awarded the contract on his low bid of $20,572, said he was ready to begin work as soon as the contract is approved. Additional contracts for heating, plumbing and electrical equipment boosted the total cost of the building to $26,667, slightly above the estimate.

PUSH CAMPAIGN FOR T. B. LEVY

Speakers Address Clubs and Groups, Aim to Explain Need to Every Voter.

A campaign in behalf of a proposed half mill levy for the care of tuberculosis patients in Richland county gained momentum today as city and county health authorities and the Richland County Tuberculosis association arranged to have speakers address every available meeting between now and election day.

Before voters go to the polls on Nov 8 an attempt will be made to explain the need of the issue to every person in the county, Mrs. Herbert H Schettler, campaign chairman, said. This will be done through clubs, schools and house-to-house visits, she added.

A number of clubs were contacted last night. Dr. F. J. Heringhaus, president of the Richland County Tuberculosis association, addressed a teachers meeting at Senior high school and the Hermit club; Mrs. Harold Adams, Richland county tuberculosis nurse, brought the issue before members of Delta Theta Tau sorority, and Dr. Mabel Emery talked to the study group of University Women. Mrs. Schettler spoke at a joint meeting of Monday Study club and Student clubs at the Women's Club and Mrs. C. J. Kalstein told the Newman Mothersingers of the levy.

Other meetings and speakers scheduled for the week are Optimist club, Wednesday night, Atty. Marshall Moore; Council of P-T-A Wednesday night, Dr. Emery; Kiwanis club, Thursday, Dr. John S. Hattery; Adult Education class at Prospect school, Thursday night, Mrs. C. C. Rowe; Republican meeting, Wednesday night, Mrs. H. C. Brokaw; and Democratic meeting, Saturday night, Atty. Moore.

CLEAR AND CRISP

That's Weather Outlook For Next 24 Hours; Another Frost Due.

Clear, crisp weather, characteristic of October, will continue through Wednesday, the weatherman predicted today.

There probably will be another frost tonight, but the mercury will begin to climb Wednesday, he added. A 36-degree reading brought frost to the county area this morning.

Duffy Reports Parole Probe Found No Evidence of Guilt

An investigation into purported irregularities in the Ohio parole system, which included a special Richland county grand jury sitting at the Ohio state reformatory early this year, was formally closed today by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy.

Press dispatches from Columbus said that Duffy reported in a statement to Gov. Martin L. Davey that his investigation, which included a Franklin county jury which sat at the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus found "no substantial evidence of culpability."

The probe has been called at the order of the governor to investigate alleged irregularities in the granting of paroles and reports that certain convicts had been paroled for a consideration.

In his final report to Davey, the attorney general said:

"From such testimony as was elicited from witnesses we were able to summon, there was no evidence warranting criminal action against anyone in an official position within the state of Ohio and no substantial evidence, only hearsay, of culpability, moral turpitude, bribery or misfeance in office against any members of the state parole board or any employe of the board."

Duffy informed the governor that "I proceeded as best I could in view of the circumstances." He charged that the governor did not assist him in the investigation by providing the sufficient funds.

The Richland county grand jury convened here on Jan. 17, and after 12 days in session was suddenly recessed without submitting a report, because of the lack of funds.

The Political Parade . . . .

IN THE STATE . . . .

STEUBENVILLE—(AP) — Charles Sawyer, Democratic nominee for governor, presented today in an address prepared for a party breakfast rally two sworn statements in an effort to support his contention that John W. Bricker, the Republican nominee, made a patronage "deal" with the Democratic administration of Gov. Martin L. Davey.

Sawyer quoted a liquor department employe, who said he was called into the office of Allen George, inspector in charge, and was told "that a deal had been made with John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, wherein the employes of the liquor department would support Bricker and in return for such support the administration would control 30 per cent of the patronage of this division.

A second statement also concerned a liquor inspector.

"This statement," related Sawyer, "says: . . . I (the inspector) was asked what work I was planning to do in the governorship campaign. When I was non-committal as to what I was going to do I was told that I would be taken care of if I worked for Mr. Bricker . . . I was told that we were to contact all the permit holders and to say that Mr. Bricker who has long been known as a dry has now become a wet . . ."

BELLAIRE — (AP) — John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, charged in a campaign radio address last night that the headquarters of Charles Sawyer, his Democratic foe, was "demanding" campaign contributions from corporations doing business with the state.

He also declared that the Democratic organization had sought funds from operators of state liquor agencies.

Speaking from Wheeling, W. Va., across the Ohio river from here, Bricker said business firms solicited were taken from a "select list of corporations . . ." then asked:

"Where did he (Sawyer) get such a list if not from Francis Poulson?" Poulson formerly was Democratic state chairman.

Bricker renewed his charges of committee for industrial organization support for Sawyer and asserted that CIO Leader Elmer Fehlhaber was "permitted to write the labor plank in the state Democratic platform," and that Edward Lamb, Ohio counsel for the CIO, "has boasted publicly that he writes speeches" for Sawyer.

Referring to what he said was an assessment of liquor agency operators, Bricker said he had "reliable information" that they were called to a meeting in Akron early

IN THE COUNTY . . . .

With the election just two weeks away, Richland county Democrats were marshalling their forces today for a concerted drive to bring all state employes in the county into the Sawyer camp.

It was learned from sources high in the party today that a movement was on foot to forestall the alleged attempt of Gov. Martin L. Davey, to "sell the Democratic party down the river," as was charged by the gubernatorial nominee, Charles Sawyer at a rally here Saturday night.

Sawyer said Davey had joined the Bricker forces on the promise that he would get 30 per cent of the state patronage if Bricker was elected

Richland county leaders however, apparently prompted to action after conferring with state leaders in Columbus yesterday were preparing to win over the vote of state employes for Sawyer.

As their first move, a series of precinct organization meetings will be held this week with definite instructions to "round up" the vote going to precinct committeemen.

Meanwhile colored Democrats

County Republicans today announced they will carry their campaign into every precinct in the city and county before election, Nov. 8, and set Thursday night for an organization meeting of central committeemen and precinct workers.

Ralph M. Hardy, executive committee chairman, said the question of a thorough city and county-wide drive was settled yesterday at a meeting of the party's election committee at Republican headquarters.

Rallies probably will be held in each township in the county, and workers will be instructed to canvass city precincts for votes, he asserted.

A few party leaders had previously favored a generalized campaign, centered in three or four county-wide rallies, Hardy added.

Thursday night's organization session will be at party headquarters on North Main street where workers will be given final instructions. Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch will speak.

Optimistic about the chances for a Republican victory in the county and state, Hardy said, "All signs point to the election

ASKS $230,000 TO BUILD NEW O. S. R. PLANTS

Ohio Building Authority Plans Hospital and Power Unit for Institution Here.

PROPOSAL GOES TO PWA

Included in $13,000,000 to Be Sought for Statewide Program.

A new hospital, costing $200,000 and a $30,000 power plant for the Ohio State Reformatory, is included in a proposed $13,000,000 construction and repair program worked out by the Ohio Institutional Building Authority and forwarded yesterday to the Public Works Administration at Washington, dispatches from Columbus said today.

In addition to the building program, the Mansfield institution also would benefit indirectly by the construction of two new reformatories costing $1,000,000 each, and each housing 1,500 inmates. One would be built at Lebanon and the other at Grafton. They would help to relieve overcrowding at state penal institutions such as the reformatory.

Sought Four Years Ago.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said today that he had requested a new hospital building nearly four years ago when he first came to the reformatory and had included it again this year in his annual report.

At the same time he had asked for a new dining room and kitchen. The latter was granted and construction began about eight months ago. Glattke said that the new dining room probably would be ready for use on Thanksgiving day.

The Institutional Authority, whose constitutional status is yet to be tested in the courts, was created by the legislature which empowers it to build state buildings and retire its bonds, sold to PWA, from rentals.

Other Buildings Planned.

The proposal calls for a new construction program totaling $11,029,000 and a $2,642,363 remodeling and repair program.

Among the new buildings proposed is one on the Ohio State university campus to house the state highway department; another at the state fairgrounds to house the department of agriculture and conservation division, and a third to house the health department.

DIES OF BURNS

Galion Girl's Clothing Was Ignited by School Heater.

GALION—Mary Agnes Jacobs, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Jacobs, 275 West Atwood street, died early today in the Good Samaritan hospital of burns suffered Monday when her dress was ignited by a gas burner at St. Joseph's parochial school.

A student of the fourth grade, the girl's dress caught fire while she was filing past the open heater. She was taken to the hospital where it was found she was suffering from severe burns on the upper portion of her body.

In addition to the parents, the survivors include two brothers and a sister. The family has resided in Galion only two months.

The body will be taken to Defiance for funeral services Thursday afternoon. Burial will be in Defiance.

BURN, DYNAMITE BUILDINGS, THEN ABANDON CITY

Nippon Troops March Into Emergency Capital After China Abandons It; Terrorized Chinese Try To Get Protection In Foreign Areas.

(By United Press)

HANKOW—Japanese troops marched into Hankow late today and began their occupation of the emergency capital of the Chinese government.

They marched in without meeting resistance. The Chinese army had abandoned the city this morning as the Japanese were marching down the last miles of the Yangtse.

Before they abandoned Hankow, the emergency capital and the commercial heart of central China, the Chinese burned or dynamited public buildings and key factories and airports, under their "scorched earth" policy of leaving nothing of military value to the conquerors.

As the Chinese left, a landing party of American bluejackets was ordered ashore to aid in guarding foreigners. Terrorized Chinese were clamoring at the barricades of foreign areas as flames advanced through the three sister cities.

The Japanese had been in sight of the city since this morning and their artillery shells had blasted a path for tanks and motorized infantry of the advance guard.

Foreign troops and sailors protected the hundreds of foreigners concentrated in Hankow.

Among the foreigners were 125 Americans, including 36 women and seven children.

Marooned on River.

In Wuchang, on the east bank of the river across from Hankow and Hanyang, were eight Americans, three Swedes and two Britons, marooned when a chartered Chinese launch failed to arrive.

Colonial troops of the French army guarded the French concession.

This morning British navy authorities sent a landing party ashore and concentrated it at the British consulate.

A landing party of 30 men was ordered ashore from the United States gunboats Luzon and Guam. The Luzon was anchored off the National City Bank building on the Hankow water front; the Guam was anchored down the river off the Standard Oil company plant.

Chinese government authorities decided this morning to abandon the city and reorganize to the west and southwest for a continued fight.

WAGE-HOUR LAW PROTESTS GROW

Shut-Downs, Demands for Exemption Confront U. S. Administrator.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Scattered shut-downs in low-wage industries, a "slowdown protest" in communications, and unsettled demands for exemptions faced administrators of the new wage and hour law today.

Despite these difficulties, wage-hour administrator Elmer F. Andrews was confident that the law, effective since midnight Sunday, would become a national co-operative movement benefitting industry, labor and the public generally.

As the second day of the operation of the fair labor standards act began, the following major problems existed throughout the country:

NEW YORK

Postal Telegraph company announced the lay-off of 1,000 messengers "to protect the company's financial position."

Western Union announced compliance with the wage provision, affecting 10,000 messengers, pending Andrews' ruling. American Communications association, claiming to represent messengers of both companies, threatened a strike if the wage-hour provisions were not abided by.

SAN FRANCISCO

The American Communications association ordered a "slowdown protest" by telegraph operators against the Postal company because of alleged "chiseling" under Loudonville and Butler Men Arrested by Federal Agents.

LOUDONVILLE — Howard Bowman, 30, Loudonville, and Walter Ruth, 30, of near Butler, were arrested last night by federal agents on charges of counterfeiting.

Bowman was arrested at his home here, where molds for making dimes, quarters and half dollars were found in his cellar, federal agents said.

According to reports, Bowman implicated Ruth who formerly lived here. Ruth was later arrested at his home.

96 Tackle Tests Here as State Begins Exams for 5,000 Jobs

It was reading, riting and 'rithmetic for 96 men and women who rolled up their sleeves and went to work on examination papers at the American Legion home today, striving to be among those who will be awarded 5,000 jobs in the state unemployment commission.

The group was the first contingent of nearly 1,000 persons who will converge on Mansfield within the next week for the civil service examination which have been declared the most extensive ever undertaken by the state.

It has been estimated that approximately 35,000 persons will sit down to examination tables at the examination centers in 15 Ohio cities.

The tests are being conducted here by C. S. Kennedy, examiner for the state civil service commission, assisted by three special deputies, Earl Black, J. Leo Hartman and Miss Virginia Allen, all of Mansfield, and Miss Lucille Schmidlapp, secretary for the state commission.

The examinations today were for field supervisors, local managers, examiners and publicists, who will be selected to maintain the 58 district offices which will be set up throughout the state for handling of unemployment insurance claims.

Positions to be filled between Nov. 1 and July 1, 1939, range from clerical jobs paying $70 monthly to executive posts with a $300 per month salary.

CAMP TO STAY

Bulkley Wires Mohican CCC Unit Will Remain.

Citizens in this section of the state today apparently had won their fight to keep the CCC camp at Mohican State park, according to a telegram from Senator Robert J. Bulkley.

Lloyd Barr, president of the Mansfield Nature Study club, who has been active in the fight to keep the conservation corps at the state park, announced receipt of a telegram today from Bulkley which said "arrangements were made yesterday and approved to continue the CCC camp at Mohican State park.

Within the past few weeks Senators Bulkley and A. V. Donahey and Congressman William Ashbrook of this district have been deluged with letters, telegrams and petitions from all over the district, containing thousands of names, protesting moving the camp to the southern part of the state.

Barr said today that petitions would remain in circulation for several days and will be held for possible future use

Bossy Lad Vacillates

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 18 and have been going with a boy of 20 for two years. He bosses me exactly as he wishes, but he won't take any bossing on my part. If I want to go to a certain place of evenings, he insists on going somewhere else. If we argue, he says we're through. At the same time, he says he loves me very much, and that he would be glad to marry me tomorrow if we could live on his pay, which is $15 a week. What do you think?

MARY.

Well, my dear Mary, if you marry this young Napoleon on $15 a week, I think you're out looking for trouble. Not that many excellent people have not made a go of it on $15 a week. But a small salary, with a bullying young man of 20 seems terribly risky to me. Wait till the world takes a little of the conceit out of him, before considering marriage.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My friend's mother isn't a bit good-looking like some fellows' mothers. Still, I've fallen in love with her because she's so understanding. My own family know nothing of my ambitions, my hopes, my dreams.

But I can talk to this lady by the hour, and she is always sympathetic. She has no idea that I'm in love with her. She's a widow. Would you advise me to tell her? Her son, who is my chum, is a year older than I am.

UNCERTAIN.

Nearly every boy begins his romantic life by falling in love with an older woman. But it's unusual to fall in love with an older woman who is homely, and not a bit flirtatious. Conceal your romantic interest for your friend's mother, which would very likely put an end to these pleasant confidences on your part. This kind of love is very apt to go up in smoke the first time an adolescent meets a pretty girl of his own age.

Dressing Makes Salad

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

A SALAD is no better than its dressing, nor is any dish better than it's sauce. So we hope that you will take to heart the very excellent sauces and dressings for which we offer recipes today.

Often a specially good sauce turns ordinary meat or fish into a triumphant culinary success, as is the case with a spicy tomato sauce that just does things to and for fish. It requires two cups canned tomatoes, one slice of onion, minced, a tablespoon butter, two tablespoons sugar, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, three tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon prepared mustard. Cook onion with tomatoes. Strain. Add butter, flour, sugar and seasonings. Let come to a boil. Cook slowly for 10 minutes.

Cottage Cheese.

Cottage cheese dressing is made with three-fourths cup sweetened condensed milk, one-half cup vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon dry mustard, one-half teaspoon paprika and one-half cup cottage cheese. Blend thoroughly the sweetened condensed milk, vinegar, salt, mustard and paprika. Force cottage cheese through sieve and add to mixture, beating until smooth. If desired, a three-ounce packet of cream cheese may be used in place of cottage cheese.

Tomato salad dressing is made by putting into a quart mason jar the following ingredients in the order given: twelve ounces tomato juice, three-fourths cup vinegar, one-half cup olive oil, tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, three tablespoons grated onion, three-quarters cup sugar. Mix together well and to one-half cup of the mixture add one teaspoon salt, teaspoon paprika and teaspoon dry mustard. Mix these well until blended and then add to rest of mixture.

Then Seal Jar.

Seal jar with rubber ring as in canning fruit. Keep in refrigerator and shake well before using.

An excellent recipe for a cooked salad dressing is always acceptable. This one calls for two eggs, five tablespoons sugar, teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon white pepper, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, tablespoon prepared mustard, one and one-half tablespoons flour, one cup evaporated milk and one-half cup vinegar. Beat eggs, add salt, pepper, paprika, mustard, sugar and flour. Heat vinegar to boiling point and pour over egg mixture, beating all the time. Add milk gradually and cook in double boiler until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. It makes two cups of dressing.

Spiced vinegar gives an extra tang to salad dressings, so if you are a salad addict, keep a supply on hand. It is made with one-quarter ounce each of whole cloves, mace, allspice, pepper, celery and mustard seed, one quart good cider vinegar, tablespoon salt. Place all ingredients in cover sugar, one bay leaf and teaspoon ered mason jar for two weeks. Strain before using.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"You have a message for me from Miss Arlen," he repeated, giving himself leeway in framing an answer. "But—I thought—well! it doesn't matter. May I hear it, please?"

"She says," I spaced my words slowly, "that she is very tired, and has decided to stay in her suite tonight. She asked me to tell you that she will see you in the morning."

"Very well," he said at last. "If that is what she wishes, then there is nothing else I can do but grant her request. Will you please ask her to telephone me in the morning at whatever hour it is convenient for her to receive me?"

"I will give her your message with pleasure," I told him, matching his formality.

"Then, if you will excuse me, I will bid you good night, or rather, good morning," he said with the ghost of a grim smile twitching his lips.

"Good night," I returned, and he bowed from the waist with impeccable grace. Turning, he pressed the elevator button.

Enters Elevator.

I turned also, but took my time unlocking the door, pretending to find the key stubborn. By sheer good luck, the elevator came up to our floor as I gave to the key the last fumble I dared try, and it was with distinct relief I saw Mr. Milner enter the elevator, which began its downward descent just as I pushed open the door to our suite.

I did not close the door, but propped it open with a door stop, and then dashed back to Miss Whitlock's sitting room.

"Bring her into the other room at once, please," I told the nurse, and then sped back again to a position near the open door.

When the nurse came into the bigger apartment with her hand upon Avis' arm, I beckoned them near me. I spoke in a whisper, but made by words emphatic.

"The coast is clear now, Avis," I said. "Mr. Milner asks that you telephone him in the morning at what ever hour you find it convenient to see him. But remember two things: You are not to come back here under any circumstances, and you are to give Mr. Milner a plausible excuse for not returning."

It's Her Problem.

"But what can I tell him?"

"That, my dear Avis," I said smoothly, "is your problem. Tell him anything you please. Make it plain to him, however, that when you leave here tomorrow morning, you will not put foot in the hotel again until after we have gone."

For the first time in our interview, a smile twisted the corners of her lips.

"That's so true is isn't funny," she said. "When Uncle Phil gets through with me, there won't be enough of me left to go anywhere. You can be shouting sure I won't be back here."

"You would better make sure of that," I told her grimly, adding a perfunctory "good night," to which she didn't reply. Then I watched her until she unlocked the door of the other suite and, entering, closed the door behind her.

"What do you think she will do?" Miss Whitlock asked in a tense whisper, as I made no move to close the door.

Today's Fashion

Black Silk for Afternoon.

By VERA WINSTON

THE LITTLE afternoon dress is a big fashion this season. Amidst all the glitter and glamor, women are looking for beautifully-cut, simply-detailed frocks of fine fabric that will be at home in any daytime gathering. They also want dresses that will serve as a background for costume jewelry and accessories. Here is such a dress, a model in black silk jersey. The high, round neck is simple, almost plain, but most effective. The gathers from the U-shaped section in front hug the figure and drape around toward the back, which is straight and plain. It has self-covered buttons.

Old geraniums which have been allowed to grow and flower in the garden cannot be expected to bloom indoors

Feminine Figure Latest Fad

By MME. QUI VIVE

Twice a year the high moguls of fashion go into a huddle, decide what the female of the species shall wear. Not only that, but what form the lady of this day must assume to show off her sartorial draperies to best advantage.

What are we in for now? Smaller waists and larger hips. It has been ordained. You may think that because women vote, drive airplanes, rush into the marts of trade and bring home the bacon they are too sensible to tighten their waist bands. You're wrong. We love old Lady Fashion and are willing to play her game. It's good for the circulation of money and the blood streams of the human system.

Cultivating a smaller waist is not as silly as it sounds. The woman of 1938 has a waist larger than it should be, due to sloppy carriage and poor posture. On a normal figure the waist should be trim. And flat, very flat. If a woman exercises and builds a good musculature, it will be that way. When a girl weighing less than 110 pounds has a twenty-seven inch waist — and that's what most of them have—it shows that her fibers are slack, that her body is out of alignment. She will feel better and look better with an equator that is not so bulky.

Frocks for day time and evening wear show fullness around the hips. The purpose of that mode is to make the waist look smaller.

Hips have been frowned down and that's all right since nobody wants to be haunchy. But there's no sense in annihilating them, as happens with some of the pretty skinnies who are intent on a life of starvation lest they carry even normal poundage. There should be a graceful curvature from waist line to thigh if the silhouette is to put up a pleasing appearance.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DEVASTATING UNTRUTH

Whenever you signal to your partner, an alert declarer reads your message too. His play will be influenced by what you tell him about your hand. If your signal proclaims a falsehood and misleads your partner, that may mean disaster for your side. But if you falsecard when it does no harm to fool your mate, the declarer may find your untruth devastating to his fortunes.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable).

Here, East passed as dealer and South bid 1-Heart. West overcalled with 2-Clubs, North put in a 2-Diamond bid and South called 2-Hearts. Over this, North went to 2-Spades, South to 3-Hearts and North to 4-Hearts.

When West led the club K, East stopped to consider that his side would undoubtedly cash two clubs and the spade A, so that in order to set the contract an additional trick was needed.

Figuring that no harm could be done in misleading his partner, East tossed the club 10 on the K and, when West played the A, discarded the 2. West carried out his partner's instructions and continued with the club 5. Declarer trumped with the heart A and to his dismay East was able to follow to the trick with the club 6. Declarer's only hope then was that the heart J would fall in two leads, but when this failed to materialize, the contract was set one.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the best discarding by West against South's contract of 5-Diamonds, after the lead of the heart K, if the declarer then runs five trumps and two clubs?

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, October 26.

A memorable day, in which the practical affairs of a workaday life as well as sentimental or emotional adventures may be under highly exciting pressure, is forecast. In general affairs a static condition may give way to constructive activity, tending toward progress and prosperity. In the social, domestic or artistic side of life, there may be romance or dramatic episodes not soon forgotten.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of happy and prosperous experiences, in which much of importance may transpire both in the business and private life, romance, adventure and thrilling experiences may culminate in marriage, or in favors or gifts from those in high places.

A child born on this day may have great capacity for a happy and prosperous life. It may be a general favorite and marry young and successfully.

CITY DEFENDANT IN $25,000 SUIT

Hearing of Damage Case Filed by Cincinnati Man Opens Before Jury Tomorrow.

A jury in common pleas court tomorrow will hear a $25,000 damage suit against the city of Mansfield in which William Willet, jr., Cincinnati, seeks to collect that amount for the death of his wife in an automobile accident in 1936 on Lexington avenue. The trial is scheduled to open at 9 a. m.

As administrator of the estate of his wife, the late Mrs. Julia Willet, the plaintiff charges that a deep rut in the street caused him to lose control of his car in which she was a passenger, throwing her out and fatally injuring her.

He accuses the city of negligence in failing to repair the street or to warn motorists of the danger.

Willet will be represented by Atty. William F. Black of Mansfield and H. C. Becker of Cincinnati. City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, jr., will handle the case for the city.

A $10,590 damage suit brought against the city by Willet's father, William Willet, sr., also of Cincinnati, is pending in common pleas court. He asks damages for injuries suffered in the same accident, June 27, 1936.

Turns Spotlight on 'Red' Activity In Labor Movement

HOUSE GROUP HEARS LAWYER FLAY PERKINS

Witness Declares Labor Head Sought to Protect Bridges, Accused Communist.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The house committee investigating un-American activities, turned its attention today to testimony intended to show how aliens of Communistic leanings have infiltrated into the labor movement on the Pacific coast.

The committee was scheduled to recall to the witness stand, Harper Knowles of Oakland, Calif., chairman of the radical research committee of the American Legion. Yesterday Knowles filed a brief with the committeee rapping the action of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins in staying the deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader, alien and reputed Communist.

Criticizes Perkins.

Roy Mimmo, Oakland counsel for the Legion's research committee, in response to questions from Chairman Dies (D) of Texas, charged that "her attitude must be in the nature of a subterfuge to protect Bridges, possibly because her ideals are the same as Bridges."

The department has stayed deportation proceedings in the case, pending the outcome of a supreme court decision on the Strecker case. In the latter the circuit court at New Orleans held that because the department of labor had failed to provide evidence showing that the Commuist party was not sufficient grounds for deportation under the 1918 deportation act.

"There is not the slightest connection between the Strecker case and the Bridges case," Dies declared. "There is ample evidence in the possession of the department of labor to show both that Bridges is a Communist, and that the Communist party advocates the overthrow of government."

Both Mimmo and Knowles took similar positions.

"In the evidence that the department of labor has in the Bridges case," they declared in their brief, "we find everything that is lacking in the Strecker case:

"A person who is active, sits in the highest councils of the Communist party and its chief director in the most important phase of the party program—the development of conditions leading to a national strike and open rebellion.

"We submit that the contention of the department of labor that the case of Harry Bridges rests upon the Strecker case is erroneous and evasive. We submit that the department in the Strecker case, failed to present the necessary evidence which it had at hand to sustain its contention, and that it can and must cure that defect by an immediate prosecution of the Bridges case."

Recalls Boyhood Days As He Marks 99th Birthday

Eight years ago Christopher Frye, 205 Bowman street, told friends on his 91st birthday that he didn't want to live to be a hundred years old, because "a man gets too lonely when he survives all of his friends and relatives."

But yesterday when he celebrated his 99th birthday, he was surrounded by friends as he sat in a comfortable chair at the home of his foster daughter, Mrs. Fred W. Lauer.

It was open house at Lauer's for the old Civil war veteran who was skipper of a canal boat through the heart of Ohio when the state was young. Mr. Frye was in a reminiscent mood, and with remarkably good memory he recalled the stirring days of his boyhood and his young manhood.

His health has been impaired in the last year and he is no longer able to make his daily visit downtown. His last trip was more than four weeks ago. Although confined to his chair most of the day, he sleeps well and eats like a 10-year-old, Mrs. Lauer says.

WIDOW STRICKEN

Her body was removed to the Fink funeral home. Arrangements for burial were incomplete today.

Hungary Bows to Nazi, Italian 'Pressure'

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfield will have representatives on both teams when unbeaten John Carroll and Kent State university gridders meet in Cleveland Friday night in a headline football attraction. And incidentally the Mansfielders will play against each other. Bill Boliantz holds down left end for Kent while Ed Willard is Carroll's right end. While both hail from Mansfield, Willard did his high school gridding at Columbus Aquinas.

Harold Bliss, 170-pound Shelby fullback not only did a pretty good job of helping wreck the Mansfield high football team with three touchdowns Saturday, but also the band. In the first half, Bliss broke one side of the drum when he was tackled near the sideline in front of the Mansfield musicians. That was the reason for that dull thud coming from the drum during the intermission maneuvers. Then in the second half, Bliss was tackled on the identical spot, and again rolled into the drum. This time he broke the other side.

Remember Rev. J. J. Tisdall, who was pastor of First Christian church in Mansfield a few years ago? He is stationed in Quincy, Ill., now and has just performed his 2,999th marriage ceremony, United Press dispatches report. The record covers a period of 44 years, making an average of 68 a year. Rev. Tisdall preceded Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, present pastor of the Mansfield church.

* * *

It seems that there are different methods of celebrating Halloween and a most unusual way has been demonstrated by three small boys in the Johns park vicinity. They rapped on the door at the home of an elderly woman and when she came to the door, they ran. But at her feet instead of the customary Halloween debris, she found a sack filled with fresh fruit and candy. The kids yelled "Halloween!" as they ran. Which is a nice contrast to the present "racket" of demanding a hand-out.

ACTOR TRAPPED

Lyle Talbot Burned Seriously as Blaze Levels Home.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—(AP)—Trapped by fire on the second floor of his pretentious home here, Lyle Talbot, handsome leading man of the films, and his house guest, Franklin B. Parker, also an actor, leaped to safety early today.

They were taken to a hospital suffering burns described by attendants as serious.

Talbot's hair was burned from his scalp and Parker's back was severely burned. The house was nearly destroyed after the pair made their 20-foot leap.

Police theorized the fire might have been started by a burning cigaret, left in the living room. Talbot had entertained last night, authorities said they learned, but all of the guests except Parker had left when the fire broke out.

DAVEY WEIGHS SPECIAL SESSION

Hagerman Says Large Cities In Need of Relief Funds.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Gov. Martin L. Davey today considered a request that he call a special session of the legislature to consider the state's relief problem.

Earl E. Hagerman, Dayton finance director and president of the Ohio League of Municipalities, wrote Gov. Davey that several cities almost have exhausted their relief funds and that the large cities would start the new year with a $2,000,000 deficit.

Many cities have no further means of sponsoring federal aid projects through which employables can be given assistance, Hagerman said.

LONDON GROPES

Fog's So Thick That Even Dogs Get Lost.

LONDON — (AP) — Londoners groped their way to work today in fog so thick that even dogs got lost.

Road, rail, sea and air traffic was slowed to a crawl or stopped in grimy darkness that blanketed a 40-mile circle around the capital.

Six greyhounds racing at the North London track lost their way on a far curve and kennel boys had to go out to find them.

BIZARRE SPY STORY RESUMED

Informer Testifies Germany 'Borrowed' From Relief Fund to Finance Activities.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A spy-turned-informer, who testified that Germany financed espionage activities in the United States by "borrowing" from the German winter relief funds, resumed in Ferderal court today a bizarre tale of plot and counterplot.

This disclosure was the latest of many startling "revelations" by the government's star witness, Guenther Gustave Rumrich, 32, in week-long testimony intended to implicate a woman and two men now on trial as agents of an international Nazi spy network.

Rumrich, who has confessed abortive attempts to obtain vital U. S. military defence secrets for sale to Germany, said yesterday that Karl Schlueter, alleged "contact" man for the ring, had told him of the Nazi government's "borrowings" to finance its spying.

He admitted under cross-examination that this was just one of the things Schlueter told him which he considered "rather unusual for a German to mention."

Earlier in the trial Rumrich testified that Schlueter, who fled to Germany during the federal investigation in which he and 17 other persons, including three high officials of the German war ministry, were indicted, had boasted of rifling U. S. mail pouches aboard the German liner Europa.

Responsible German quarters denied the allegation last night.

LAST RITES SET

SEX EDUCATION OF YOUTH VITAL ISSUE, AUTHOR TELLS MOTHERS

Contrary to opinion, sex education is not detrimental to the morals of youth, but a vital issue that is coming into its own whether we want it or not, Mrs. Francis Bruce Strain of New York, author on social hygiene, told an audience last night at the First Presbyterian church.

Speaking under the sponsorship of the Mansfield council of Parent-Teachers associations, Mrs. Strain addressed a group of 75 mothers and teachers on "Social Hygiene Instruction for the Younger Child."

She explained that sex education was the "conservation of the emotional life of the child, especially in that aspect of emotional life that has its relationship between men and women."

She urged parents to "release their children to each other," explaining that the child should be allowed to play and gather in mixed groups, so they would learn to adjust themselves to each other.

Mrs. Strain warned against the dangers of too much coddling the small child.

She pointed out that it was the duty of every parent to answer the questions of youth pertaining to social hygiene "intelligently."

This morning, Mrs. Strain, who writes for "Good Housekeeping" magazine, spoke to a group of boys at the Senior high school. Yesterday she addressed the girls of the school.

Mrs. Strain was introduced last night by Mrs. I. W. Basinger, director of the North Central district of the Ohio Congress of Parent-Teacher associations.

REPORTS DUE

'Y' Campaign Workers to Meet Tomorrow.

First reports of the annual Y. M. C. A. membership roundup, which got under way yesterday, will be given at a workers' dinner at 6 p. m. Wednesday in the "Y" dining room.

Plans are being made to have Wayne Hanson, foreign work representative of the National Y. M. C. A. council, address the workers, according to Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, and program chairman for the drive, will preside.

Opening yesterday, the drive will continue through next Monday. A goal of 300 new members has been set.

The campaign is headed by Robert Remy, as general chairman, and Rev. D. N. Roller and Norman L. Wolfe, as division leaders.

'DAD'S NIGHT'

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

CZECH DEMANDS MODIFIED UNDER NEW PROPOSAL

Territorial Requests Slashed 30 Per Cent on Advice of Powers, Diplomats Say.

BUDAPEST—Diplomatic circles said today that pressure by Germany, Italy and Poland inspired the moderation of Hungarian demands in a new offer to Czechoslovakia to compromise their territorial quarrel.

The Hungarian government cut its territorial demands by about 30 per cent in a note which the Prague government was requested to answer by tomorrow.

Premier Bela Imredi in a press statement termed the proposals "really conciliatory."

Give 'Strong Advice.'

This friendlier attitude developed, diplomatic informants understood, upon the strong advice of the three governments to avoid pressing demands upon Czechoslovakia that would endanger peace.

Until yesterday Hungary had refused to decrease demands for large areas of Czechoslovakia inhabited by Magyars. The demands developed with the Munich accord of Oct. 1 by which Germany took over Czechoslovak Sudetenland. Czechoslovakia held the Hungarian proposals to be excessive.

Informed persons here thought it likely Prague would reject even the compromise note. In that event, Premier Imredi said Hungary would "enforce its justice by all means available to the nation."

A half million soldiers remained at the Czechoslovak border today while the Hungarian government awaited the answer from Prague. (The cabinet was convened in Prague to draft a decision today.)

Premier Imredi said a map attached to the Hungarian note divided disputed areas into eight sections, in which plebicites would be held separately.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Social Distinctions In Army Between Officers, Men Create Bad Feeling

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The simplest cure for the fears of those who think a great program of armament for this country would develop an aristocratic and warlike officer caste is to eliminate the word "gentlemen" from the 95th article of war.

This article was lifted bodily from the British articles 150 years ago. The British had adopted it long before that, when the word "gentlemen" had a little meaning which has been lost by now.

There are no more democratic institutions in this country than the military and naval institutions within themselves.

But, despite their internal democracy, under which the son of a four-star general enjoys no advantages over the son of a man with the lime in his hod carrier's boots, the course does contrive to instill in the young gentlemen, as they are called, a strong sense of the social untouchability of the man in the ranks and the social untouchability of the enlisted man's wife in relation to the officer's wife.

The theory holds that an officer is a gentleman and that an enlisted man is of a lower social order. They may not often examine the meaning and effect of all this, but it is apparent throughout the life of the services.

In service emergencies, officers and men become human beings with no human distinction, and the lawful authority of the officer commands obedience not because he wears finer feathers, but because he is authorized to command.

* * *

But, in other times, the officer has his pick of the pubs, and the enlisted men, even though socially and intellectually compatible and perhaps desirable, are excluded from the officers' set and from places which they frequent. As a result, they often are reduced to association with the riffraff of the post town.

Civilian snobs cultivate the society of the commissioned personnel to the exclusion of the enlisted men and their wives.

The tradition endowed the officer with an indefinable social superiority which he and the public knew he did not necessarily possess or feel. The public, however, instinctively felt that somehow an officer ought to be superior.

The French were much more democratic. Their officers have authority, but a general entering a room will click his heels and salute all present in a gesture of politeness, nothing more, and a buck private is not expected even to look up. American and British officers—in the higher ranks, at least—feel that they lose something of dignity and authority (perhaps that it is ungentlemanly) to frequent the haunts of enlisted men.

It might be so in the event that the false distinction emanating from the word "gentleman" has driven the enlisted men—or "the people," as they used to be called in the navy — to questionable places.

* * *

But worse than the preservation of the word "gentleman" in the 95th article would be the institution of social or political commissars to supervise the political regularity of the commissioned and enlisted soldiers.

That remedy was used in Russia and later in Spain, and it is obvious that it must create a corps of snitchers who undermine the legal authority of the men with responsibility.

In the American armed forces, social distinctions persist, which, if they do not have legal force, at least have equivalent force derived from tradition and habit.

In an army of intelligent men, social distinctions are vicious and detrimental to the service. The distinctions go far beyond the mere preservation of respect for legal authority. From custom, they persist in degrading the enlisted man to a low position and exalting officers to a status which to them is false, uncomfortable and often ludicrous to the very men whom it intended to give an impression of dignity.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Hadn't thought much about it, but strange things are happening to music in Hollywood.

What brought it up was my wandering into a recording stage today to watch some preliminary scoring for "The Wizard of Oz."

Judy Garland, Bert Lahr, Ray Bolger and Buddy Ebsen were doing a number called "Jitterbug." When the film is shot later, this will match with their progress through a scary, enchanted forest. The music is weird, naturally, and full of "effects"—but just how weird I hadn't realized until I saw the orchestra, Georgie Stoll conducting.

Most of the instruments were conventional, but that thing the man was beating with a xylophone stick was strange. It looked like nothing a musician would meet socially, much less play.

The answer: for an effect, so off the track that it couldn't be expressed in the orchestration, they had dismantled a small upright piano, muted all but three strings with cotton, and got what they wanted by beating those strings.

The ocarinas—or "sweet potatoes"— were singing away, too, just as if they belonged. They are practically accepted now—on recording stages anyway—because they provided the answer to a desired effect in "The Firefly." (The chipper little notes in the Donkey Serenade number, remember?)

Movie orchestration also has made at least one expert on the practically obsolete instrument called the "viola d'amore," antecedent of the violin. They found one to add authenticity to "Marie Antoinette"—and one of the musicians mastered it. What he'll do with the art now is cause for speculation, but as Leo the Lion always roars, "Art for Art's Sake."

* * *

The he-manizing of Robert Taylor goes on without cease.

In "Stand Up and Fight" Bob has two fist fights with Wally Beery, and other incidents of the picture include: two gun battles, a race between a stagecoach and a train; a race after a runaway stagecoach; and an avalanche. If Taylor gets through all these, he'll be ready to start ice skating for his next film, "Hands Across the Border."

Nominated for the Glamor Boy of 1938: Leo Carroll as Morley's Ghost in "A Christmas Carol."

His face coated with a sickly grey paint, his body weighted by chains and account books symbolic of Morley's crotchety career on earth, Carroll is no sight to see before lunch. Or after, for that matter. But on the screen he'll look like a fairly respectable ghost, suitable for children. Reginald Owen is playing Scrooge—at Lionel Barrymore's suggestion when the studio wanted to hold the script for his own convalescence—and Terry Kilburn is doing Tiny Tim.

It's true, and not a press-agent's dream, that Lionel gave up this role he's played annually on the air for years, gave it up because he figured the world could use a picture like this, this very Christmas. Besides, Barrymore argued, it's an English role, and there was Reginald Owen, so why not?

Obligingly—if not through sheer sentiment—Metro is planning the film for Christmas week release.

Whippets Command Respect

• • •

Yankees Can Be Defeated

• • •

Dillon Graham Explains How

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

HAVING disposed of Mansfield in a fashion that surprised even their most loyal supporters, Shelby's daring Whippets today commanded more respect from their N. C. O. conference rivals.

Shelby is no dead cinch to regain the title it lost back in 1934, but Coach Bill Query's men rate much consideration.

Not a great deal of attention was paid to Shelby by several rivals after registering five straight victories at the expense of such weak clubs as Willard, Ashland, Mt. Vernon, Norwalk and Bucyrus. But the Whippets' defeat of the Tygers has established them as serious threats.

Of course, Shelby did not accomplish an unprecedented feat in trimming Coach Russ Murphy's men, but Mansfield football is generally tougher than the type on display in the N. C. O. circuit, and, consequently, the Whippets gained some deserving recognition.

Galion appears to be the Whippets' chief rival for conference honors, but Marion, which is host to Shelby Friday night, cannot be disregarded. The Presidents showed more than their customary power in vanquishing Ashland last week, and might surprise both Shelby and Galion.

Galion is not a surprise team this year. The Orangemen won the championship last year, and, with virtually the same lineup, are making it miserable for their foes this season.

Coach Johnny Burnison is turning out a fine job in his debut as head mentor at Galion, but he and Query are beginning to find out that coaching winning teams is no child's play.

If Shelby and Galion can get past Marion, the big game of the year will pit the Whippets against the Orangemen Nov. 11.

Suggests Benevolent Program for Rivals.

DILLON GRAHAM, who writes sports for the Associated Press, has hit upon a solution to curb the New York Yankee menace. He suggests that Col. Jake Huppert arrange a sort of handicap for his weak and bewildered rivals.

The Indians, Red Sox and Tigers, under Graham's benevolent program, would be granted four outs and a base on balls every inning. As a further concession to the Senators and White Sox, the Bronx Bombers would commit one wild pitch each game, said erratic throw to be perpetrated whenever the Senators or White Sox demanded.

And as for the Athletics and Browns, in addition to the other grants, the Yanks should allow them to toss out and replay any inning they selected. For instance, the Yanks often slug their runs across in clusters. The Athletics could elect to overlook, forget and disregard any particular inning they chose. (Of course, there is the possibility that the retakes would be even more disastrous, but generosity cannot go on forever.)

Another suggestion would be to permit New York's opposition to score automatically from third base in Sunday games whenever the party of the second part advanced into such rarely-explored territory. Then it might also be a good idea to call second games of doubleheaders after five innings. This would reduce by almost 50 per cent the Yankees' period of attack.

As a special concession to home town crowds on such holidays as the Fourth of July, Labor Day and Mother's Day (isn't that a sweet thought?) the Yanks would be required to become victims of double plays, whenever timely, in the third, sixth and ninth innings.

And as for their National league rivals in the world series competition, the Yankees should grant them a head start of two games. This might serve to bring the odds on the Yankees down to as low as 2-1.

Eddie's All Wrong About Notre Dame, Apologizes.

EDDIE BRIETZ SAYS: The Texas Christian Horned Frogs got a laugh out of a line in a Philadelphia paper which called them "The Pride of the Panhandle"—which is only 1,700 miles from home . . . Haw! . . . It seems the prize boner this corner has made this season was to pick Notre Dame to lose four or five games. . . . Well, we got the info from a former assistant coach out there who is supposed to know the dope . . . We apologize to all the Irish fans and alumni. . . . 1939 Tulane opponents might paste this in their reference book: 19 of the 23 players used to beat Rice will be back next season. . . . The press agents of the National football league naturally are not broadcasting the fact that two of its crack teams recently were spilled by the Cincinnati Bengals, a team composed largely of small college players and cast-offs . . . The teams dumped were the Chicago Bears (17 to 14) and the Pittsburgh Pirates (27-0) . . . They ought to get those Bengals in the league or something, oughtn't they?

Fordham Has Date With 'Doc'

Rams, Panthers Try to Break String of Scoreless Ties in Pitt Saturday.

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — The Fordham football team is going to the dentist on Saturday. The team has made an appointment with Jock Sutherland, D. D. S., for 2 p. m. in the Pitt stadium at Pittsburgh. Doctor Sutherland will be assisted, not by a white-uniformed nurse, but by 11 cleated, padded helpers, who carry out the doctors orders.

Sort of Special Team.

Doctor Sutherland has developed himself quite a football team at Pittsburgh this year. This is no novelty, to be sure, because about the only thing that can match the sun in regularity is good Pitt football teams. But the 1938 one appears to be sort of special, probably because Doctor Sutherland finally came around to using the forward pass.

Up until this year Pittsburgh scorned the pass as though it was something unhealthful, but now the boys are tossing the ball around with the abandon of a girls' volley ball team. That they are tossing it with fair success was proved last week when they outpassed Southern Methodist, the team that was supposed to have a monopoly on aerial cuteness.

Pitt's development of passes can be likened to the rattlesnake developing horns in order to be able to butt you to death in case his poison might not be sufficient to turn the tragic trick. Already a terror through the ferocity of their running game, the Panthers now are doubly frightening. When the lines get weary of pulverizing an opponent on the ground, the passers start running the foe to death with forwards.

The meeting of Fordham and Pittsburgh stands as the grade A game of the week. For the past three years they have battled to scoreless ties, with Pittsburgh's offense all but battering its brains out against Fordham's "seven blocks of granite."

This year it will be different. The "seven blocks of granite" have graduated from the Rose Hill quarry and Coach Jimmy Crowley, probably as bored by the scoreless deadlocks as the spectators, has turned out a team whose watchword is "touchdowns."

Rams Can Score.

The east has seen few better attacks than that which Fordham showed in crushing Oregon 26 to 0 last Saturday. In Len Eshmont, the sophomore whom Crowley says is potentially the greatest ball carrier of all times, the Fordhams have a break-away runner who can score from any part of the field. And Pete Holovak is almost as good.

But in Pittsburgh, the Rams will face a team that is entirely different from their opponents to date, Upsala, Waynesburg, Purdue and Oregon.

They Aren't In Headlines, But They Play Football

"Big names" among the smaller college football teams in the United States this season may well include this trio of stars. They probably could star on any team, but because their teams don't play a major league schedule they fail to receive the headlines of the All-American troupe. Shown are John Kirk, Middlebury college lineman; Johnny Reis of Barberton, O., fast-stepping sophomore back at Western Reserve university, and Roy Engelbretson, Creighton university senior.

Harmon Boasts 18 Touchdowns

Rams Continue In Front of State Point Parade; Wilkins Second In District Race.

ALL that practice Gene Harmon did on Rollie Cole's farm down near Mifflin last summer is paying dividends for the Madison Rams this fall.

Fleet Harmon kept himself in trim for the football season by dodging through a wooded plot after chores to improve his running game. How succesfully he succeeded is shown in the individual scoring figures in which he ranks with the leaders in the state.

While the modest 150-pound tackle dodger credits his blockers for making his touchdown jaunts possible, Coach Al Fendrick does not consider the time he spent dodging big trees down on the farm last summer as wasted effort.

Emulates Brother.

Harmon, who has scored 109 points, is regarded as one of the finest open field runners ever to romp for Madison. He has more than emulated the deeds of his famous brother, Ed, who scored heavily for the Rams a few years ago, and the Lunch boys of another great Madison era.

The eel-hipped Harmon has registered 18 touchdowns in the Madison games to date, and with three more on the schedule, he should bolster his total materially, despite the fact that he is a marked man.

Second only to Harmon in the district individual scoring race is a teammate, Bill Wilkins.

Wilkins' touchdown-making is even more spectacular than his high scoring teammate's when you consider he plays a terminal position in the line, while Harmon performs from a halfback post.

Wilkins has scored 82 points to rank right among the leaders in the state race. The majority of Wilkins' touchdowns have come via the aerial route, but he also can carry the mail on end-around plays.

Next to the Madison pair in the district scoring race are Harold Bliss of Shelby and Bill Durtschi of Galion, who are tied with 72 points.

With Harmon and Wilkins setting the pace, Madison remains as the heaviest scoring team in the state with 248 points. Galion and Shelby follow with 183 and 180 points, respectively.

Galion, Shelby and Bellville continue as the only unbeaten clubs in the district.

On Road This Week.

All of the undefeated clubs face tough assignments again this week. Shelby performs at Marion, Galion goes to Rossford and Bellville invades Ashley.

Other games on this week's card: Akron Kenmore at Mansfield, Marion St. Mary's at Crestline, Bucyrus at Fremont, Mt. Vernon at Ashland, Loudonville at Butler, Danville at Mt. Gilead and Clearview at New London.

Madison was to have rested this week, but Fendrick has scheduled the Mansfield reserves for a regulation game at 3 p. m. Thursday on the Rams' grid.

BOWLING SCORES

Art Hilborn Sets New Season Record In Club Handicap League With 260 Game.

A NEW season single game mark for the Club handicap league was established at the Meder alleys last night by Art Hilborn of the Optimists, who smacked out an opening tilt of 260. Hilborn compiled a three-game total of 627, but the Optimists dropped three games to the Commercial Managers to enable them to go into a tie for first place with the Liederkranz club. Harry Frick poled out a 240 and 631 for the Managers.

The Liederkranz club, led by Bill Donnellan's 606, took two games from the Schoolmasters with a 2745 total.

Pete Grohol walloped the wood for a 617 count to lead the American Legion to the high team total of 2793. The Legionnaires took two games from the J. A. C. club.

Garrison was high with a 624 as the Mansfield Savings Bank compiled a 624 total, which was good for a pair of wins over the Page Dairys.

Art Rattan Works Sets Scoring Pace.

THE Art Rattan Works set the scoring pace in the Commercial C league last night with a 2701 total, which included games of 920 and 929. Mason, 578, and Kiraly, 573, were high as the Rattan club swept its series with the Shaw Jewelers.

The first place Gimbel Confectioners dropped their first game in 19 when they lost the opener of their match with the lowly News-Journal club. Led by Charley Gimbel's 572, the Confectioners came back to win the next two to remain on top.

Oscar Walter's second place Barbers, who have bowled one less match than the Gimbel team, also dropped their second game of the season, but managed to take a pair from the Goodrich Store.

The Jackson Potato Chips remained in third place by defeating the Lamb Lincos in two tilts.

In the other matches, the Levering Dairys took two over the Hecht & Casey Coals and the Druschel Drugs won two from the New Method Laundry.

THIS MAY UPSET ALL YOUR IDEAS ABOUT ANTI-FREEZE

This anti-freeze story is contrary to established beliefs. Tests made over a period of seven years in 300 cars prove that "Zerone" makes a perfect mixture with water and that you lose little or none by evaporation or separation. Radiator losses are due mainly to mechanical causes—leaks, sudden stops, etc. Where there is boiling, the losses are of the whole solution—"Zerone" and water—and such losses are in about the same proportions as the original protection.

So, first, use "Zerone" as directed on can or protection chart. Second, never assume that it's water only, or "Zerone" only, that is lost if your cooling solution is low. Check strength of the solution, and replace the indicated combination of "Zerone" and water. Otherwise, you may have too much protection or too little, affecting performance and safety.

The materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need less for protection. Replacements, if any, cost you little. So you are wiser to use "Zerone." Remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

Irish Headed For Big Year

Service Teams Next on Sked for Notre Dame.

By STEVE SNYDER

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Safely over their troublesome early hump, Notre Dame's Irish—as fighting a lot as ever wore the green—definitely were headed today toward their finest football season under slim quick-thinking Elmer Layden.

Where last year's Irish lacked fire and fight in their early games this squad has it to spare. Already they have conquered Illinois which gained a scoreless tie in 1937, and Carnegie Tech's plucky Scots, who upset Notre Dame last fall.

Among others still to be played are Minnesota and Northwestern, lone remaining midwestern challengers for the number one spot among the nation's ranking elevens, but these are teams that Layden can point for.

Tech was tough. For three full periods they had the best team Notre Dame has seen.

But for an unexpected lapse in Carnegie's quarterbacking, it might have been a scoreless tie. Apparently thinking it was third down instead of fourth, Carnegie failed to kick, fumbled on the play and lost the ball on downs on their own 47 yard line. Notre Dame marched straight to the goal.

The Irish spend the next two week-ends in the east, meeting Army at New York and Navy at Baltimore. Then come Minnesota, Northwestern and Southern California.

There'll be plenty of thunder at Northwestern this week-end when the Wildcats tangle with their ancient foe, Minnesota. Back in 1936 Northwestern buried the Gophers deep in the mud of this same Dyche stadium, wrecking a 21-game winning streak and Minnesota's hopes for a third straight claim to the national title.

Ohio State, easy victor over Chicago last week, takes a week away from the conference to play New York U., in the east and the Bucks return against Purdue the following week with a slim chance to share the championship still open. They have tied Northwestern.

Sharkey Puts Grappler On Canvas With Left.

CLEVELAND — (INS — You can't hurt a wrestler, but Jack Sharkey, Boston's boxing sailor, forgot that last night when he put Robert (Strangler) Wagner, heavyweight grappler, out of the running with a short left to the midsection.

Sharkey acted as referee in a two out of three brawl between Wagner and Dutch Heffner. Heffner took two falls, but the grapplers wanted more so Jack let them go to it until Wagner fouled Heffner too obviously. Warned,

NEW HOT WATER HEATING PLANTS SAVE ON FUEL

Split Degree Control of Home Temperatures Offered by 1939 Models.

Hot water heating plants, model 1939, offer split degree control of room temperatures, clockwork precision in plant operation, and are distinguished by smaller radiators, pipes, and valves due to the fact that the system is operated with a higher water temperature and more rapid circulation of the water, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries bureau.

In fact, the hot water heating plant of today has little in common with its forerunners, even in appearance, the bureau points out.

The net result of the many revolutionary improvements made in everything entering into a complete installation, from boilers and radiators to controls and valves, is to give the homeowner greater personal comfort at lower cost.

Modern practice sanctions the use of temperatures as high as 220 degrees for the water in the radiators. The increase from the old standard, around 175 degrees, hinges on three significant developments, the bureau explains.

1. The use of higher water temperatures.
2. The incorporation of electric circulators.
3. The perfection of highly sensitive mechanical and electrical boiler temperature controls for gas, oil and coal.

The modern hot water heating plant is equipped with an air-tight compression tank and relief valve. Thus the system is closed to the atmosphere. The result is to raise the boiling point of the water permitting higher water temperatures to be used.

The use of electric circulating pumps literally races the hot water from the boiler to the radiators, thus giving the homeowner higher radiator temperatures for a given boiler temperature.

In old systems, for instance, the temperature of end radiators may have been from 15 to 35 degrees below boiler temperature during peak periods. In new systems, all radiators can be within 5 to 10 degrees as hot as the boiler.

The mechanical circulation of the water combined with higher temperatures has permitted a decrease of 40 per cent in the size of the radiators or convectors. Pipe sizes, too, are less. Whereas an old system required pipe of from 3 to 3½ inches in diameter, many new plants are designed with 1¼ inch mains.

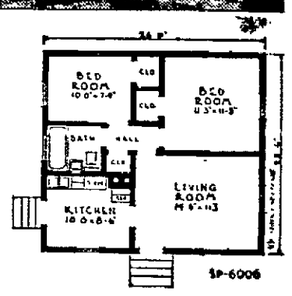
Typical Economy House Plan

(Copyright, Southern Pine Ass'n.)

Economy is the watchword of small home design and this is exemplified strikingly by the "low-cost" house plan shown here.

Economy of construction is effected by the simple square framing with standard length lumber. Also the plumbing for kitchen and bathroom are combined into one wall. Economy of space is provided by the arrangement of doors for direct, unobstructed routes through the house, and economy in heating is furnished by the central location of the chimney.

This is an efficient, attractive two-bedroom home that can be built at low cost by using good quality southern pine throughout, for framing, exterior and interior finish and trim and floors.



Sun spots are dark, cloud-like regions from 500 to 50,000 miles in diameter which last from a day to a week and in number in 11-year cycles.

Income Property Ruled Eligible For Repair Loans

Funds with which to finance repairs, alterations, or improvements to business properties — office buildings, apartments, factories, stores, garages, etc.—as well as homes and institutional structures, may be borrowed from private financial institutions qualified to make such loans under the Federal Housing Administration Property Improvement Credit Plan.

Because repairs and improvements to business structures are usually of a more highly technical nature than home repairs and improvements, owners of commercial and industrial buildings are advised to take inventory with the help of an architect, engineer, or other technically trained person.

TWO IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT CINDER UNITS THAT EVERY HOME OWNER WILL RECOGNIZE AS INVALUABLE TO HOME CONSTRUCTION.
1 NAILING AND CUTTING
Nails can be easily driven into the wall, will grip firmly and will never rust. Nailing strips and plugs are eliminated and all grounds or trim may be fastened direct. The units can be cut or channeled without breakage or waste.
2 PLASTERING SURFACE
Trueness of wall, rough surface and even suction facilitate plastering and reduce waste to a minimum. The adhesion is permanent and there is no danger of staining or cracking.

LEADING ISSUES HIT NEW HIGHS IN ACTIVE MART

Gains Run From Fractions to Two Points as Business Reports Spur Traders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Leading stocks continued to register new highs for more than a year in today's stock market, with gains running from fractions to around 2 points.

While profit taking was plentiful throughout, cheerful business news, brokers said, still was the mainstay of the market.

Prominent on the push were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Westinghouse and Air Reduction.

Bonds generally tilted forward, with attention principally centered on secondary loans. Commodities were a shade mixed, as were foreign securities markets.

Straws in the financial wind included: the latest weekly condition statement of reporting federal reserve member banks in 11 cities disclosed a decline in commercial loans of $16,000,000 and an increase of $12,000,000 in brokers' borrowings.

For the week ended Oct. 19, debits to individual bank accounts throughout the country registered a gain of 34 per cent over the preceding week, which had only five business days, and were 12 per cent below the comparable period a year ago.

HITLER BARES DEMANDS FOR NEW TERRITORY

Colony in Africa, Expansion of Trade Highlights of New Program for Peace.

British and French governments coincided with a meeting of Britain's special cabinet committee to consider legislation for inclusion into the king's speech at the reopening of parliament next month.

In particular, it was learned, the committee considered defense measures and the general European situation, with special reference to the Hitler policy and early ratification of the Anglo-Italian friendship pact. Premier Mussolini cleared the way for putting this agreement into effect by withdrawing 10,000 of his troops from Spain.

Following the cabinet committee meeting, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain presided over a special meeting of the committee of imperial defense.

All Britain's defense chiefs attended the session and reviewed recommendations designed to increase the tempo of the empire's rearmament. This was considered especially significant in view of the sweeping nature of the German program.

Regarding colonies, it was learned, Hitler has admitted that Britain is unable to return the pre-war German colonies of Tanganyika and West Africa.

But he insisted upon return of all other former German colonies and additional territory to compensate for loss of Tanganyika and West Africa.

In this connection, Hitler indicated he would like a portion of the Belgian Congo and Angola to make a German colonial domain along the African west coast.

Der fuehrer insisted that the German colonial domain he envisages cannot be scattered all over Africa but must form a territorial unit.

In addition, he demanded there must be no restrictions upon construction of German naval and military bases unless Britain and France agree to make and abide by similar restrictions.

Hitler's ambitions in Europe also were revealed in his "price of peace."

He declared that he must have a prior claim to Hungarian wheat and Rumanian oil exports—commodities which would vastly increase the strength and resources of the Nazi reich in the event of a European war.

Nevertheless, provided his colonial claims are satisfied, he gave London and Paris to understand that he would be willing to talk over the question of disarmament on this broad basis:

1—Qualitative reduction of airplanes.

2—Abolition of bombing open cities.

3—Reduction of gun calibres and even total abolition of big guns.

4—Abolition of big tanks.

Once he obtains satisfaction of his claims both for colonies and for central European advantages, Hitler informed Britain and France he would accept an approach for converting the present tri-partite monetary agreement—among the United States, Britain and France—into a four-power agreement which would include the reich and place the mark on a settled basis.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

the 44-hour-a-week provision Union officials said that operators throughout the country were refusing to send more than 20 messages an hour; threatened to use same tactics against Western Union.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

More than 15,000 workers reported to have lost their jobs as result of shut-downs in pecan shelling and garment industries.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

Heads of independent and exporting tobacco companies estimated that 30,000 colored people, mostly women, will lose jobs permanently; predicted that between 50,000,000 and 75,000,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco, now stemmed in the United States, would be stemmed abroad as a result of 25 cents an hour minimum wage.

Andrews did not appear greatly concerned with these difficulties.

In a nationally broadcast radio address concerning the law last night, he outlined the following benefits:

For employers: "American industry does not have to face unfair competition based on low-wage and hour standards from across state lines."

For workers: "American workers in every section are protected from the effects of sweated labor from other parts of the country."

For the public: "The American public and those apparently not directly affected by the wage and hour law can expect more stable industrial conditions and a price structure that will enable their fellow citizens who labor to live as decent human beings should live."

GOES—TO JAIL

Convicted Panhandler Ordered to Serve Out Fine of $10, Costs.

"You'll go now," Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch told a middle-aged man arraigned before him today on a charge of disorderly conduct, "but it will be to jail until a fine of $10 and costs are worked out."

It all happened after officers testified that Dean Drum, a transient, was picked up on North Walnut street for panhandling after he had been "given a break" two days previous by officers who escorted him outside the city and warned to stay out.

They said they found him yesterday on the same street accosting persons for funds and using "abusive language."

AUTO DEALER WANTED HERE HELD UNDER $86,000 BOND IN NORWALK

Richland county authorities admitted today that there was little chance of returning Harry N. Bedell, Norwalk automobile dealer, to Mansfield to face charges of obtaining more than $5,000 from the Crawford Finance company under false pretenses.

Bedell, wanted on a number of similar charges in other counties, was held in the Huron county jail at Norwalk under $86,000 bond after he pleaded innocent to nine indictments for forgery.

Sheriff E. P. Long of Richland county, who sought Bedell's return here yesterday, filed seven more warrants against him with Huron county authorities. They are in connection with his alleged acts of fraud against the Mansfield office of the Crawford Finance company.

In the warrants, signed by Edwin C. Dee, head of the finance company, Bedell is charged with presenting fictitious mortgages and notes to the Mansfield firm to obtain financing of automobiles that were never sold.

Prosecutor Rex F. Bracy of Huron county said he was investigating from 60 to 100 accusations against Bedell, including charges that he fraudulently obtained new and used automobiles and forged names on applications for certificates of title of motor vehicles.

Bedell's secretary, Caroline Borgia, indicted for aiding him, is held in the Huron county jail under $5,000 bond.

SAWYER RENEWS 'DEAL' CHARGES

Declares Liquor Department Employe Told to Work for Republican Opponent.

Sawyer also was to visit New Philadelphia, Carrollton, Wellsville, Alliance, Sebring and Akron today.

Speaking in Cleveland in reply to Robert A. Taft's criticism of New Deal spending, Democratic Sen. Robert J. Bulkley last night accused the Republican nominee for his senatorial seat of having "no interest in the lowly and unfortunate."

In a campaign address, Bulkley quoted Taft as terming New Deal spending "immoral and insane."

"Cleveland was kept from disaster by WPA and other New Deal agencies," Bulkley said. "We know how immoral and insane it would be if we didn't recognize the responsibility of giving jobs to those who are out of work through no fault of their own.

"It is shocking to think that my Republican opponent declares that the federal government has no responsibility for jobs for the unemployed. This shows conclusively that he does not have in his heart the interest of the lowly and unfortunate."

Bulkley said Ohioans "don't want to go back to the bread lines and soup kitchens of the horrible Hoover era."

The rival candidates will meet at Youngstown tonight in the fourth of their debate series.

In the meantime, all Ohio awaited the coming of Sen. Vic Donahey who has declared he will take the stump for his party but who said he has a "plan of my own" and wants to be left free to work it out.

Calculated to offset the whirlwind stumping by John Hamilton, G. O. P. National committee chairman, the New Deal has already sent Charles West but little has been heard of his drive.

Former Governor George White, who has maintained an attitude of watchful waiting as has Former Governor James M. Cox, is scheduled to speak at Wooster tomorrow night.

in October by Edward Oberholtz, chairman of the Summit County Democratic State Executive committee, and asked to contribute.

The candidate called upon Sawyer to reveal "the full details of your negotiations with the social security board in August, and added:

"You keep your fingers out of the present pension fight so that the dispute may be settled promptly and the pensions paid on time."

Bricker referred to a quarrel between Gov. Martin L. Davey and the federal board that caused the U. S. agency to withhold its 50 per cent share of Ohio pension money.

At Wapakoneta, Robert A. Taft, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, told an audience here last night that "if President Roosevelt continues his purge, he will appear in Ohio in 1940 to ask for the defeat of Senator (Vic) Donahey.

Taft's statement came after he declared that Ohio's junior Democratic senator "is keeping his ears to the ground and not falling in line with the Roosevelt New Deal program."

Earlier, the Republican candidate said that Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, his Democratic opponent, "voted for all the New Deal measures although at times he professed he did not believe in them prior to a vote in the senate." He then mentioned Donahey, who has indicated he would not seek re-election.

Taft continued his attacks against a "two-price" system suggested by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and asserted "the only way to bring about recovery is to encourage private industry to take an active part to relieve our unemployment problem."

CHANGES RULING

Court Continues Case of Man Accused of Non-Support.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch today had tempered a ruling made last Saturday, and continued until Feb. 1 the case of Philip Schwaner, 25 Kohler avenue, charged with non-support.

Waiving preliminary examination when arraigned Saturday, Schwaner was bound over to the grand jury and released on a $1,000 bond. The continuation was granted after the court learned that Mrs. Schwaner is to become a mother soon.

SCIENCE BARES 'MAGIC' SPRAY WHICH GROWS LARGER FLOWERS

(By Associated Press)

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—A magic new spray which grows larger flowers was announced to the National Academy of Sciences here today.

The bigger flowers are only one of the spectacular results of spraying this mixture on plants. It also makes possible new hybrids—that is, crosses in breeding plants—realizing a long sought goal of agricultural scientists.

The spray is an emulsion of oil, mixed with colchicine, which has been a standard medical remedy for gout for nearly 2,000 years. Colchicine is extracted from meadow saffron.

One year ago Dr. Albert F. Blakeslee of the Carnegie Institution of Washington's Station for experimental evolution at Cold Springs Harbor, New York, announced to the academy discovery that colchicine would cause strange changes in plants. It doubled the chromosomes, and the substances that govern heredity.

The oil holds the colchicine on the plant tissues until it can penetrate. Buds or young stems are sprayed. On the sprayed part the leaves become a deeper green. Fruits become shorter and stouter.

The flowers grow larger. In some species this bigness of blossom is so great—sometimes 25 per cent—that the spraying has immediate commercial value for floriculturists. The seeds from these larger flowers are larger and fewer.

The big flower and "stoutened" parts grow on the same plant, alongside normally small flowers and slender parts.

The miracle is that the seeds from the colchicine-sprayed parts of the plant grow permanently larger flowers, and a plant that is permanently different from its parent.

FORD OUTLINES FACTORY-FARM WORK PROGRAM

Claims 'Counter Industrial Revolution' Ahead for Workingman in U. S.

(By International News Service)

DETROIT—Henry Ford today outlined a "counter industrial revolution" which he said would weld industry and agriculture together as a unit and stabilize employment by using the same men to work in both factory and farm.

"We have been doing it for 25 years in our small factories," he said, "and it is only a matter of time until all industry uses its men part time in the plant and part time on the farm.

"The division will be about 50-50, the men working equal hours in industry and agriculture."

The motor magnate, probably the greatest industrialist in the economic era created by the industrial revolution, told of his idea of the future in answer to the question of whether his experiments in combining farm and factory work could be expanded to a scale large enough to stabilize employment, particularly in the automobile industry, where employment spurts and slumps are regular.

"Of course, the automobile industry needs stabilization most."

"The change won't be sudden, it won't come overnight, but it will come gradually, just as the change from agriculture to industry came when the factory system was started.

Change By Necessity.

"The change will come naturally. It won't be done by government. It will just come of necessity.

"One big thing that will bring it about is that factories are using more and more farm products. The factory owners will find out it is better for them to use their own men raising their own farm products. We are doing that now.

"And it will make a better world. The men working for us who spend part of their time farming are happier than they were. Lots of them are city men, too, who never farmed before. You never hear about strikes or labor trouble in our factories where the men are dividing their time.

"Those men farm for a basic living and work in the factory for extra cash.

"Of course in a big industry there will have to be on central plant."

Ford's 1,000 acre River Rouge plant, which at capacity production employs 90,000 men, is surrounded by hundreds of acres of thrift farms, on which its factory workers can till the soil, growing vegetables for themselves or soy beans which are used in the factory to make plastics.

Ford envisioned other far-reaching changes, all based on a new conception of agriculture, saying:

"We are just scratching the surface of what can be done on the farms."

Speaking briefly of the present, of current outlook of his company, Ford said:

"Business should be a lot better this year. We'll have our factory going full speed in a few weeks. How do you like our new line of cars?"

Asks Police To Find Son After 2 Boys Beat Him

Police today were asked to search for two youths after the father of one reported to officers that they had "beaten him up" and then fled.

Raymond McElroy, 84 Orchard street, told Deskman Claude Watts at police headquarters that his 15-year-old son and another boy, 14, jumped on him and beat him during an argument at his home yesterday. He said he received a shoulder injury.

Police records show that both boths are now on probation from the juvenile court for the attempted burglary of a filling station last August. The record shows also that they have been in custody several times previous as juvenile delinquents. No charges have been filed in municipal court.

Meiling Soong, and high officials left in a squadron of six special airplanes during the early hours of the morning.

The decision to abandon the city, it was explained, was made because a further stand could be of no benefit.

Blow Up Factories.

Fires were burning in various parts of the three Wuhan cities, spreading menacingly.

The roar of dynamite explosions was heard as Chinese engineers began blowing up key factories and all airports in the Wuhan area. It was apparent that at whatever cost to themselves, the Chinese were going to leave little to the conquerors.

Dr. Logan Roots, of Little Rock, Ark., telephoned the United Press bureau that in Wuchang, Chinese engineers were systematically burning public buildings.

Foreigners who arrived here from Hwangpei, seeking the protection of foreign bluejackets and troops, asserted that Japanese planes were flying almost to the ground west of the city, firing at refugees who jammed the highways leading to safety.

The position of the foreign colony was dangerous.

Kai Shek Stays With Troops.

CHUNGKING, China—(U.P.)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek is at the front west of Hankow with the Chinese army and has decided to fight on, it was announced officially here today at the new emergency capital of the Chinese government.

Chiang, with his wife and high officers and officials of the government, left Hankow this morning by airplane after ordering abandonment of the city.

The Chinese government already was established here and foreign diplomatic envoys had arranged their own quarters.

Tonight's official announcement that Chiang was at the front was the first of its sort since the Japanese entered Hankow this afternoon.

The official announcement indicated that Mme. Chiang-Shek was with her husband. Earlier it had been announced that she flew to Chengtu, 170 miles west of Chungking.

STATE OKAY ON SALE OF RELIEF BONDS SOUGHT

City Officials Act to Dispose of $60,000 Issue Rejected by Sinking Fund Board.

Mansfield city officials today sought state authorization for private sale of $60,000 in relief bonds turned down last week by trustees of the sinking fund.

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward said a transcript of the procedure had been sent to the state auditor requesting approval of the sale of the notes which are to be retired from anticipated state taxes in the next five years.

The issue which was approved by council at its meeting Oct. 4 calls for the issuance of 12 bonds of $5,000 denomination and one of $500 with interest not to exceed 4 per cent.

They are to be retired three at a time beginning March 1, 1939, and continuing through March 1, 1942, from funds received from the collection of state taxes through 1942.

Declines Bonds.

Ward said the sinking fund trustees had declined to buy the bonds because of their limited "working capital" at the present time, which was not of sufficient amount due to the recent purchase of several thousand dollars worth of general bonds from the city.

He explained that a transcript of the bond issue had been sent to Columbus for approval since it involved the expenditure of state funds.

If the state gives its consent Mayor Claude M. Hunter and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley will offer the bonds at private sale.

Legislation passed by council provided for the private sale of the bonds if refused by the sinking fund, allowing the mayor and city auditor to bargain with financial institutions for the best premium and interest rate, without calling for sealed bids.

The bond issue was authorized to pay the city's present indebtedness of approximately $50,000 in relief bills now due city grocers and wholesalers.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

CHAPTER 28

The world ended for Judy as Ronald followed Abbey into the den. She breathed, she walked, she smiled, she wasn't dead. She might even be able to cry—bushels of tears that would make her eyes red and her nose sore . . .

That conference in the den meant only one thing to Judy. Mr. Boland was being informed of Abbey's change of heart.

"Judy! We came mainly to see you!" It was Craig who greeted her in the great drawing room a few seconds later.

Craig! She had thought her heart was cruelly hurt because of him such a brief time ago. It hadn't been like this, though. Yet she had had far more reason to be wounded then. This time she had practically none. Was she always to go on, her heart being kicked like a football, until it gave up and rolled off the field?

Mary was with Craig. She wore a long tight black skirt and a jeweled jacket. Her hair, parted in the middle and coiled low on her neck, made her resemble a Madonna.

Mary was lucky. She loved a man and he loved her.

Judy heard a voice greeting guests and knew that it must belong to her. She smiled. It was a mechanical voice, like a toy, that you wound up and forgot until it ran down.

* * *

Marjorie came in a heavy white crepe dress that was lavishly dotted with old gold coins and gold slippers and cape.

She closed her eyes, for just a moment, as she walked through the door. Soon now she would see Count Phillippe. Any moment she would be confronted with visible evidence that there had been a month by a blue sea, when a silver wind blew softly, and gondolas wove their mystic way through the water lanes of Venice. She would know for all time she had not dreamed it.

That moment at the boat had been so brief. Count Phillipe had seemed different. But now—now he would be his gay, charming tender self . . . the self he had been when he told her he loved her, before she knew that he was on a heart-breaking crusade—

Judy saw Marjorie and came to meet her, and Marjorie adjusted the twin mask of Judy's smile.

Dinner . . . place cards painted by a distinguished artist, torn to bits by nervous fingers, or seared with cigaret flame by a careless few. Course after course of priceless food. Small Santa Clauses frollicking on the ice that concluded the meal.

Marjorie had given one swift glance at the count and looked away, trying to disguise the emotions on her face.

"Ah, Marjorie, it is good to find you again," he was saying, but she did not stay to listen. Her head was swimming dizzily.

Judy observed Marjorie's quick withdrawal, and thought about it a time or two during the dinner. But there was so much to do . . . Ronald, Ronald, why did you come? Why did you make me dream again?

The dinner ended. The other guests arrived. The swing band, that would send its tuneful melodies as high as the cloudland where the angels once sang, came too.

* * *

The party moved to the swimming pool and the game room beyond. Silver trees stood everywhere, a silver Neon moon shone through the frosty boughs that were a canopy for the ceiling. Stars twinkled, miniature sleds, big enough to hold two, made seats.

The swimming pool had been frozen. Here presently the most famous skater of the age would perform, and then all the guests who wished would glide on the green glass surface to the ring of their skates, or, if they didn't skate, use the ballroom floor upstairs, the game room next door. Skating shoes were abundantly provided.

Gaity was king of the evening. If you laughed, if you talked, if you laughed again, no one would notice that your heart was breaking—breaking up like real snow and ice, not this artificial stuff that had been banked everywhere.

When Ronald came to Judy, chose two pairs of skates, one for her and one for himself, and fastened them on, she said no word. Not until they were on the ice's surface did he smile down at her.

"Like it?" The old warmth was in his tone.

"Now I do." Surely she could take one minute's happiness.

"But before?"

"It's not real."

"Ah, Judy, you're learning fast."

(So fast that maybe I'll pass you, Ronald. Aren't you forgetting the rules you gave me—courage, sacrifice, strength?)

He spoke slowly. "What do you think of the count?"

"He's amusing. Why?"

"Do you think he really loves Abbey?"

Judy was looking away, into the bower where the musicians sent their provocative strains higher and higher, as she heard the question.

"Neither the count nor Miss Boland like to entertain me with secrets. But when a man wants money and a girl wants a title—or aren't you good at arithmetic, Ronald?"

(So, Ronald, if you want her, you may have her. Don't give up. Persist. Only you're real and she's moonbeams and glamor and sham. Don't you see?)

* * *

Her eyes searched among the skaters and dancers. She did not see that blue dress which gathered all silver lights to itself and flung them away glorified. The gold head was not shining proudly, as though it challenged the silver stuff to defeat it.

Ronald said: "Judy, can Abbey rely on your help if she needs it? She may not ask it. She may have to."

His voice was curiously pleading. Oh, it was a Merry, Merry Christmas!

"Abbey is all right. She's so young," Ronald tried to explain.

"One month younger than I am," Judy supplied, and a dimple flashed.

Ronald smiled, too. "I mean in wisdom, judgment — that sort of thing. She's never had a worry heavier than a handful of pink confetti until now."

"And now?"

Maybe he would confide in her. Then she wouldn't send her thoughts back and forth between two opinions, like a shuttle train. He loved Abbey—he didn't love Abbey . . .

Judy's silver sandals had low, sturdy heels. Her warm brown eyes were steady and bright. Her curls and her eyebrows and her mouth flew gaily upward. She was small, but there was a sense of durability there.

It was this which Ronald sensed and on which he leaned. But she did not know it. She knew only that he donned armor to fight for another girl.

Craig came, skating alone, and held out his hands. She glided away with him, smiling at Ronald, not even saying goodby.

(Here is Craig—Craig who once was dear to me. Because he was, I'll say light words to him for a little while, too. Goodby, Ronald. Oh, you can count on me. It's my job, isn't it? Whatever we do, we Rogers see things through.)

Marjorie found Ronald staring at Judy with a puzzled frown on his good-looking face.

"What did I do?" he asked. "I might be someone to whom she paid a quarter, summer before last, for mowing the lawn if New York had lawns. I thought she would want to help me—forget it, Marjorie."

Music—slow, fast, daring, sweetly syncopated. Laughter. Chatter.

* * *

The rooms were too warm, and Judy picked up a velvet cape that was part of her frock, and stepped outside on the terrace. The moon was a great tinsel ornament for somebody's evergreen tree, and the stars were caught in a network. She breathed deeply. She walked down the terrace.

She stopped quickly. A girl was standing against the wall. She moved out of the shadow just as Judy appeared. A man who had been with her turned and disappeared. The girl was Abbey. Judy didn't see the man.

Maybe it was the Count. Perhaps it was Ronald.

Abbey banished that first supposition. Her slim fingers gripped Judy's arm. "Promise me you'll not mention this to Count Phillippe! Promise!"

Others who wish to enroll for the course may do so at Bowman street school on Monday, Wednesday or Friday evenings—the nights on which classes are conducted, according to James Gordon, in charge of the project.

Twenty-eight persons interested in sales as their vocation completed the first quarter, Gordon said.

The term Czechoslovakia refers to two national groups of inhabitants, the Czechs and the Slovaks, both distinct branches of Slav origin.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1938.

American wants are few. All we want are high wages, high profits and high living.

The ability of a country to govern itself is in inverse ratio to the number of its political parties.

It certainly was inconsiderate of Missouri police to arrest for speeding a citizen who was in a hurry to get home for a safety council meeting.

Democracy and Dictatorship.

JOSEPH P. Kennedy, American ambassador to England, insists that "it is unproductive for both democratic and dictatorship countries to widen the division now existing between them by emphasizing their differences, which are self apparent."

But isn't there danger in urging this upon democracies, which by their nature are easy-going, while dictatorships are always aggressive? The more tolerant the former are, the easier it is for the latter to overwhelm them with propaganda and force. Tolerance, a grand ideal in itself, is a game that takes two to play.

It is not necessary, of course, to play it with such violent disregard of the normal rules of civilized life as the dictators are guilty of. They are quick to seize upon any weapons at hand, to work their will and discredit democracy. People to whom democracy represents a fairer, saner and more gracious way of life, though they must meet violence with violence when attacked, can probably accomplish their aims more effectively in the long run by presenting their case fairly, sanely and graciously.

This is the procedure adopted by Thomas Mann, the great German author, exiled by the Nazis and now, as an American, leading the world battle for freedom. To him it is a fight to save the finest things in modern civilization.

His arguments, however, need to be "stepped down" a little from his lofty style, to be clear to the plain people who are the strength of democracy the world over. There should be more people on this job, in America and elsewhere.

Laymen's Faith.

THE most important of President Roosevelt's recent utterances perhaps, is not a state paper or a political speech, but just a little sermon. It appeared in his letter to Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of New Orleans on the occasion of the eighth National Eucharistic congress.

It was a simple expression of his belief that there is probably no problem in the world today—social, political or economic — "that would not find a happy solution if approached in the spirit of the Sermon on the Mount."

It is by no means an unfamiliar idea. Business and professional men have joined the ministers in expressing such views. Many insist that the principles set forth in that great sermon are economic and political truths just as much as religious truths.

Some of our leading economists and editors are inclined to think that, for practical modern living, you can boil the whole thing down to the Golden Rule, or that the simple principle Good Will, if generally practiced, would solve these economic, political and international problems that are now tearing the world apart.

Art for Everybody.

THE other Eleanor Roosevelt," who is Eleanor Butler Roosevelt, wife of Theodore, jr., has likewise embarked on a public career. She is now assistant director of a New York art gallery specializing in contemporary art, and is much interested in promoting a better appreciation of American art. She says in a recent interview:

"The WPA has made the nation much more conscious of art, but I don't think the general public has become accustomed to the possession of beautiful things of its own. We think too much of art in terms of museums."

She points out that it isn't necessary any longer to be rich in order to have beautiful things. An "average family" can afford to buy a good etching or oil painting occasionally, and prints of good paintings do not cost much.

Then there is photography, which might be called the art of the people, and is now practiced and enjoyed by millions of Americans. The beauty of this is that it enables people to produce their own art. The same thing is true of a type of art long practiced by large numbers of American women—beautiful needlework, in which Mrs. Roosevelt herself is an expert.

Autonomous Colleges.

AN INTERESTING problem, new to Americans, arises in Cambridge, Mass. Harvard college seems to have grown so big and powerful that it is, so to speak, swinging the municipality by the tail. And that is quite a feat, when you consider that Cambridge is a city of more than 1,100,000 people.

The city fathers wouldn't mind so much if that great, rich college with its vast real estate holdings and endowments of nearly $140,000,000, paid taxes like ordinary business institutions, and if the students behaved like regular citizens. But as a non-profit institution the college is exempt from taxation, and it is said to pay nothing for city services, while students and faculty are accused of "trading with university organizations instead of private dealers." Moreover, it is well known that students on occasion make nuisances of themselves and seem to think they are above the law.

Worse still, the college people are accused of treating the city like a "guinea pig," in insolent and annoying experiments.

So the city council will ask the state government to incorporate the university as a separate jurisdiction, authorized to provide for itself all services now furnished by Cambridge. It would become virtually a city within a city, like some foreign universities.

Many another town will realize how the Cambridge government feels about it. Here is a modern version of the ancient feud between "town and gown." The change demanded would be an interesting experiment. It might prove costly, however, to both sides. It looks like a case for arbitration.

Keeping Step

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — As he approaches the end of the sixth year since he first was elected, President Roosevelt has:

The biggest and fastest-growing navy.

The biggest national debt.

The biggest social security and relief agencies.

The biggest cabinet (You have to include Harry Hopkins, ex-officio, these days).

The biggest federal payroll (except possibly for the wartime peak).

More and deeper face wrinkles.

The last come from all the business that produced the rest. It is no snap job being president in a time when nations are pitching nickels to see which goes to war first. Pucker-wrinkles, the kind gained from compressing the lips, seemed deeper about the president's mouth last time we saw him than even a few months ago. He's been easing up these last few days since the Czech war scare, taking time out at Hyde park whenever possible.

* * *

Sees First Play in 3 Years.

On a recent Saturday night he went to Maxwell Anderson's musical comedy, "Knickerbocker Holiday" at the National theater in Washington. It is the Capitol's only "legitimate" theater. The president is a bug on early New York history, particularly Hudson river Dutch chronicles such as formed the mainstay of the play. It is the first show the president has gone to in three years. He usually has talkies served to himself and guests at the White House, often several times a week.

The show billed to follow "Knickerbocker Holiday" at the National was George M. Cohan's "I'd Rather Be Right." The president hasn't seen it, although it has been running a year in New York and elsewhere. Mrs. Roosevelt saw it when it first blossomed out with its teasing references to the president making puppets of supreme court justices.

* * *

Doc Says He's Fit.

Outwardly the president's merry manner is unchanged. He is buoyant. His doctor says he is in good physical trim, and his general attitude right at the moment is as it always is when he is pressing hard on a new program. The new one is military preparedness.

He was the same in the early days of the supreme court fight, again with last year's big navy program. At such times he is as vibrant as a beagle after a fox. In those moments he is most interesting to critics and followers alike.

The president has added a new gold tinted fish to the several mounted on the walls of anterooms of his office. It is a golden grouper he caught near the Tortugas Islands this summer. The thing is not orange colored, like a gold fish, but gilt colored, like a radiator. Already the walls hold two large tarpons and a sailfish, each the size of a welter-weight steer.

* * *

Strong On Water Art.

Approximately a score of pictures hang on the walls of the president's office, every one of which has water as part of its subject matter. Most of them also show ships. A water bug, the president.

The new high steel fence around the White House grounds is completed. Incidentally, there is only one spot from which a window to the president's executive office can be seen. It is from the most distant reach of the grounds. Tourist "rubber neck" buses always stop there while the spielers point it out. As you move along the fence nearer the White House, little shielding hills rise artfully here and there within the grounds to block off the view.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Oct. 25, 1918.

Mayor Henry Brunner fined a proprietor $50 and costs for permitting minors to play the punch boards.

On the basis of Liberty Loan canvassers, the population of Mansfield was believed to have reached 28,000.

Arthur W. Grassick, North Weldon avenue, died at General hospital.

Every business place and manufacturing plant in Shelby was closed because of the flu epidemic. Ashland was recovering and the ban on Ashland-Mansfield visits was lifted.

An oil painting of W. S. Cappeller, founder of The News was hung in the business office of the newspaper.

Temperatures of 68 during the day and 64 at night brought one of the mildest days for late October in several years.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Oct. 25, 1933.

Some Mansfielders insisted snow had fallen during the morning, with the temperature down to 33.

Mrs. May Shively, 375 Sherman place, was reported improving at her home from serious illness.

Mrs. C. V. Kinsell, Maple street, was in Norwalk attending funeral of her cousin, William Laughlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford S. Banks, recently married, were feted at surprise party at their home, 656 Scholl road.

Miss Alice Dickson, Shelby, became the bride of Daniel Dist, Mansfield, at ceremony performed in Shelby.

Objects to 'Anti-Monopoly' Title

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—As chairman of the committee on investigation of monopolies, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney deprecates references to the inquiry as an "anti-monopoly quiz." The Senator has insisted again and again that he is not trying to convict anyone of anything; he is after facts, which he intends to use for the benefit of all concerned, corporations included. He objects to the term "anti-monopoly" as not only inaccurate but as calculated to scare witnesses he hopes to obtain valuable information from. Of course all congressional investigators profess an intention to be fair, but, as a rule, it is true that they do prosecute rather than investigate.

Maybe prosecution generally is what's required.

Still, it's natural on the part of an obviously suspected witness to testify as balkily as he can. Senator O'Mahoney realizes as much and is doing his utmost to convince all hands that he doesn't want victims; he's after enlightenment.

In addition to having said all this, my impression is that he has said it in a fashion to make him widely believed.

* * *

Investigations and Investigations.

There are two outstanding kinds of investigations.

One type of investigator thinks he sees evils which he wishes to uncover and correct. He's honest but he has his mind made up in advance. He may be right, too. Nevertheless, the folk he's "probing" are bound to short circuit him if possible.

A second type of inquisitor seeks mainly to make himself personally prominent. I don't assert that he's DIShonest. Unquestionably he considers that he has a tolerably good case; he wouldn't try to advertise himself by identifying himself with a poor one. But he doesn't care so much for the case "per se" as he does for his own limelight. If he really accomplishes something in the public interest it is, to him, a welcome enough by-product, but it isn't his essential article of manufacture; his essential aim is to be the main thing in a spectacular, popular investigation.

Senator O'Mahoney's effort appears to be in a class by itself.

Had the Wyomingite chosen, he could have been practically the sole inquisitor. Instead he made his committee a three-jointed affair—senate, house of representatives and executive. Indeed, he has somewhat obscured himself.

Moreover, if he had had partisan motives, he would have started his hearings ahead of Nov. 8, in order to influence election day results. He didn't do that. He deliberately postponed his body's activities until after election, to keep the partisanship taint entirely out of them. He specifically gave that as his reason for the delay—and I imagine that the administration would have been glad to have him begin sooner; his probe might have generated some strong New Deal medicine.

* * *

On the Square.

Principally O'Mahoney is a New Dealer. He fought supreme court packing, but he's exceptionally on the square.

Here's his philosophy:

This country, originally the most individualistic on earth, gradually and imperceptibly has become corporationized. It's almost as much so as Germany or Italy.

Yet there's a distinction.

Germany and Italy (yes, and Russia) are GOVERNMENTALLY corporationized. There's a modicum of corporate responsibility to the public. It's a bad system, but it isn't entirely irresponsible.

Whereas our big corporations, being private, are responsible to nobody.

Senator O'Mahoney's theory is that they must be subjected to some minimum of regulation or there's danger that they'll be centrally swallowed up, as in the totalitarian countries.

The Senator wants to ascertain what this minimum is, so preserving democracy.

It's as complicated as sixty.

Architects.

Our lives are ours, we build them as
We wish. Nay, do not say,
"I had to do this thing or that,
I had to go this way.

Or that." Some truth there is in "Fate".
It shapes at times the plan.
But after all much is left for
His wishing to a man.

We are the architects of our Own lives. Then let us build
A structure that at last records
Our highest dreams fulfilled.

Daily Bible Thought

A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.—John 13:34, 35.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Fallacy Comes Home to Roost.

By GUS W. DYER
Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

The railroads are privately owned, but under the direction and control of the government. The owners of the roads have little authority in the direction of their business. They must take orders from a political body.

The wages of railroad employes and the general conditions of service are fixed by employe-unions under governmental direction. Those who pay the wages have no authority in fixing wages. It is theirs "not to ask the reason why but to pay and die."

The responsibility for the sad plight of the railroads today is not on the owners of the roads, but on the government. It is a conspicuous example of the miserable failure of government in its attempts to direct business.

If the owners of the railroads had been permitted to conduct their business under constitutional industrial freedom, it is not believed that there would have been any serious railroad problem today.

Under the direction and control of governmental agencies, following seven lean years of reduced traffic and inadequate earnings, the railroads are facing a serious crisis today. During the first eight months of 1938 the railroads failed by $182,000,000 to earn interest and other fixed charges.

This means that the railroads are falling short of paying interest on what they owe and other similar obligations almost a million dollars a day. One-third of the roads are already in bankruptcy.

Different from other types of business, railroads must continue in business, however great the losses. The only way they can meet their losses is by placing additional mortgages on their property. if the losses continue at the present day rate it is just a matter of time until the property will become valueless to the owners.

The railroad crisis is made more serious by the fact that over five billion dollars belonging to 50 million savings bank depositors and the holders of over 100 million life insurance policies are invested in railroads.

As a means of saving the railroads from a total collapse, the owners are asking the government for permission to reduces the wages of the employes 15 per cent.

The wages today are at an all-time peak. The representatives of the employes positively refuse to consider any reduction in wages, and have declared they will paralyze the business of this country by a nation-wide strike if any reduction in their wages is ordered.

The ground on which the railroad employes defend themselves is that any reduction in their wages would be an attack on the president and on his policy of economic recovery.

The president's theory, as they state it, is that economic recovery and general business prosperity can be obtained only by increased buying power, and the chief means of increasing buying power is through increasing wages.

Hence any reduction in wages is a direct attack on the president's plan and is antagonistic to economic recovery and general prosperity.

In the railroad crisis the president meets his buying power fallacy in action, face to face. Will he repudiate his theory or will he give his consent to a policy that means confiscation of the railroad property in the interest of the railroad employes?

This is a serious crisis for the president as well as for the railroads.

Timely Editorial

Yes, We Imported.

In Springfield, Ill., a few days ago, Henry Wallace, federal secretary of agriculture, was reported as saying that last year no corn or wheat was imported into the United States. But Bertrand H. Snell, New York congressman, dug into the record of competitive farm products in 1932 and 1937, and these show that the imports of the latter year not only were heavy, but that they were much larger than in 1932.

For instance, in 1932, the United States imported 347,627 bushels of corn, but in 1937 the importation amounted to 86,337,248 bushels. In 1932 there came into this country from abroad 10,026,000 bushels of wheat, but in 1937 the imports amounted to 17,434,837 bushels.

Many acres of land on which there was a ban on planting would have added up enough ground to produce the wheat and corn imported.—Ohio State Journal.

A Farmer's Diary

Antidote.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THERE is to be a wedding, in the spring, at a little log house along a lake, in the far northwest. The bride-to-be is preparing her trousseau; the bridegroom-to-be is studying maps of roads and highways eastward. They have looked forward to this event for years—for their hair is gray, and this wedding will be their golden one. The golden honeymoon is to be spent among the scenes of fifty years ago.

Among the most prized of the bride's hope chest collection is an afghan, made of patches of knitted wool. Each little square was a remembrance from some friend, who brought the bit of yarn to a "friendship shower." The total of these donations, knitted by this old lady into separate units and joined, makes a shawl that warms not only the body but the spirit of its wearer, and seems symbolic of her very life. For patches are dark and drab, but these only accentuate the brighter hues, and the whole effect is so warm, soothing and cheerful that it delights everyone who sees it, or knows its history.

Seven of this couple's eight children are grown and scattered. One died in infancy. Their life together has been lived on farms—in Ohio, Michigan, and Washington. They have helped maintain the rural school, the country church, the little industrial town nearest where they lived. Their busy, happy home has always been an inspiration to their neighborhood.

And there are countless others like them—couples who do not get into the headlines, but upon whom the future of America depends more surely than upon ballot boxes, or economic reforms. What better ballast for a careening ship of state than families of solid, honest, educated citizens?

In a fine letter, recently, from a reader friend in Rochester, N. Y., he told me of ten couples in his family who had celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries—a total married life of 550 years. What a record! So long as the woods are full of folks like that, America can go forward, singing.

Listen, World!

Give Yourself a Chance.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO YOU think your wife has changed, Bill? And you complain, Ella, that your husband "isn't the man he used to be"? And, naturally, you're both Plenty Sore!

There's your Mrs., for example, Bill. What a quiet little thing she was when you first married her . . . so devoted to her home . . . hadn't a thought outside you and your comfort. And now lookit her! A regular gadabout! Always joining clubs . . . always starting campaigns and crusades! Never an idle moment when she's around—nor a restful one. Might's well live in the Grand Central Station!

And there's that man of yours, Ella. Remember what a happy-go-lucky kid he used to be . . . always ready with a wisecrack or a new practical joke? Now he's a regular old plug! Studies every night on that correspondence course of his . . . almost impossible to drag him out of the house. Whatsa use of having a husband if he acts like that!

"Oh, why couldn't they have stayed as they were!" you both wail.

BUT THEY HAVE!

They are today exactly what they were on their wedding morn but you don't realize it.

You're not looking at a NEW self in this seemingly altered partner. You're simply looking at a DIFFERENT one of the Bunch of Selves which you took "for better or worse."

"A bunch of Selves?" You never thought of them as that, did you? To the contrary, you thought of your husband and wife as ONE person . . . one, single, consolidated individual with one definite array of ideas, attitudes, tastes, principles, habits. But there is no such creature on earth. No one is just ONE person. We are all many persons . . . different persons . . . with varied and contradictory desires and attributes, all functioning in one shell of flesh.

A Meek Mousie wife may also be a colorful Adventuress. She may be a dreamer and a demon housekeeper at the same time. She may have any number of different and inconsistent Selves, just as a man may be playboy, poet, plugger, preacher and philanderer within the same skin.

But the mate, friend, relative or business associate of this man or woman rarely dreams they possess multiple personalities. To the contrary, they see only one Self . . . that Self which most nearly answers their individual preference or prejudice.

So, unwittingly, we all marry under false pretenses . . . fooling ourselves as thoroughly as we fool our partners . . . blaming each other, with equal bitterness, when the inevitable exposure takes place . . . and rushing, as frantically, for divorce from these "heartless cheats."

* * *

What a tragedy! And what a stupid and needless blunder! For that very "changeableness" which we so resent, might be the basis for the most delightful and alluring partnership! Love rarely dies naturally. Nine times out of ten it is bored to death by the ghastly monotony of marriage . . . by the dreary Sameness of the Selves we exhibit to each other!

Why were we first attracted to each other? Because we weren't "always the same" because we were new and different. And by that very difference we enriched each other's life—excited each other's imagination and desire!

Then, before the wedding chimes ceased, we stopped being different . . . and became that same monotonous Self which our mate seemed to prefer . . . which best served his or our convenience.

No wonder romance so speedily loses its piquancy . . . so soon ceases to be a glamorous adventure!

If we would only give our Selves a chance . . . our different Selves . . . our unpredictable Selves—

If only we would be all the different Selves we were meant to be—

What a glorious diversity we would find in marriage . . .

What an infinite adventure we would discover in life!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In one of the lesser courts the other day a seaman was requested to tell what he knew about a broker who had disappeared at sea. It was an old case and the hearing was of a private nature, there being only a few spectators and the usual reporters.

The spectators, however, became confused as the testimony progressed. Most of it was given in lingo peculiar to the sea, and a casual survey among those present revealed that not one person accurately could define such maritime words as "hurricane deck," "lee," "lower away," and "winch,"—all this, mind you, within 200 yards of the New York harbor, which is the greatest seaport in the world.

BENAY VENUTA kissed a trip to Tahiti goodbye to take a role in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye."

And that's not just a play on words, either. For a year this tall, statuesque blond radio songstress had been planning a second vagabond jaunt to the island in the southern Pacific ocean. Had her beachcomber's outfit out of mothballs, too.

Then last summer along came Brock Pemberton with a script of the scratch-as-can-scratch Clare Booth comedy. Would Miss Venuta consider playing a straight role, the part of a tough, glamor girl of the screen?

"Sure I considered," Miss Venuta says, "but it didn't take me long to make up my mind. I've done everything there is to be done in show business, except play a dramatic role. And honestly, I had a terrific hankering to do just that."

So back into mothballs went the beachcomber's panties and shirt. And for the first summer in many years, Miss Venuta remained in New York.

To prepare for her first dramatic venture on Broadway, Miss Venuta hied herself out to the cow barn circuit, joining the Cedarhurst Players. For weeks she got her stage bearings in "Berkeley Square," playing with Douglas Montgomery. Then, a one-summer's veteran of stock, she went into "Kiss the Boys Goodbye."

* * *

WHEN she isn't working, Miss Venuta likes to rove the high seas. Adventure seems to come naturally to her. They started coming her way when, taking a vacation from a finishing school in Beupre, Switzerland, she hired a boat for a Mediterranean cruise. The voyage bogged down when the wind died away and the motor refused to kick over. Four days of drifting about found them without food. Just as things looked bad, a tramp freighter picked them up.

On another occasion, Benay went shark-fishing with Joan Lowell off Jamaica. A sudden squall piled their boat up on a reef. A rescue party arrived not many minutes before their craft went to pieces.

Two summers ago, Miss Venuta traipsed down to Tahiti, a 6,000-mile jaunt, and got in six weeks of beachcombing, painting, and photography. She built herself a tennis court and taught the natives how to play baseball. he lived when she calls the "Life of Venuta."

Before priming herself for the dramatic stage, Miss Venuta sang for the networks in the "blues" manner and was a graduate of the night club circuit. Now that she's crashed the dramatic stage, she is toying with another ambition: to become a modern dancer. But not for some time.

"I'm going back to Tahiti next summer," she says. "Why, I have a ninety-nine year lease on a cottage there!"

GALION PLANT HEAD TESTIFIES IN NLRB CASE

McBerty, President of North Electric Company, Denies Unfair Practices.

GALION—F. R. McBerty, president of the North Electric Manufacturing company, and Lewis J. Davis, secretary-treasurer of the company, were called to the stand for cross-examination Monday afternoon by Harry L. Lodish, attorney from the eighth regional office of the National Labor Relations board, in the case of the International Association of Machinists, Local 1151, against the North Electric Manufacturing company of Galion, claiming unfair labor practices.

The hearing started Monday morning at 10 oclock in the basement of the public library before Trial Examiner Thomas S. Wilson of the National Labor Relations board of Washington, D. C.

Charges were made by A. G. Skundor, grand lodge representative of the International Association of Machinists, affiliated with the A. F. of L.

The board is represented by Lodish of Cleveland, assisted by Peter DeLeone, also of the eighth regional labor office.

Representing the North Electric company are Clare M. Vrooman and Vernor R. Burt, associated with the firm of Garfield, Cross, Doust, Baldwin and Vrooman of Cleveland, and Carl J. Gugler of Galion.

The charge of the union is that the company discharged and refused to reinstate Charles Pfleiderer because of his union affiliation an dactivity. and that the company by its officers and agents interfered with and restrained its employes in the rights of self organization.

Explains Operation.

McBerty, president of the local factory, appearing on the stand explained the company's system of selling its products, and that in the manufacturing of automatic telephone systems, the company had only one competitor, a Chicago firm. He stated that the Chicago company was a larger concern. and that the principal owner had informed McBerty that it was completely organized.

During the course of the hearing it was stated that McBerty recalled a courtesy meeting with A. G. Skundor and a committee of employes. The company counsel at this time introduced a verbatim copy of the proceedings of this meeting. It was also brought out by Lodish that there were other employes present at the meeting besides the people representing the union and the people representing the company. McBerty stated that there were merely persons interested. McBerty said that there had been a loudspeaker set up so that employes might listen to the full story of the meeting with Skundor, but he denied that production was shut down so that they could listen.

Attorneys referred to the content of full-page advertisements which had been paid for by the company and placed in the local newspaper. McBerty said that was done to inform stockholders, employes and citizens of the facts to clear a "muddled' situation.

McBerty stated prior to this that he didn't know what had dropped off the attendance of employes at union meetings. unless it was that the union leaders were poor salesmen.

McBerty stated that Pfleiderer was not fired by his order, but that he knew the character of his work because he was assigned to a special project which McBerty was personally interested in. and that it had failed in its performance.

ADMITS FIRING 26 BUILDINGS

Boy, 17, Says He Got "Thrill" Out Of Watching Blazes.

HAMILTON —(AP)— A 17-year-old boy who said he got a "thrill out of watching a fire" confessed today, Police Chief John C. Calhoun said, to setting fires causing damage of $100,000 here in six months.

Calhoun said Floyd Bruck, 17. taken last night during a fire at the home of a friend, admitted he started 26 fires to homes and public buildings. A $30,000 loss to a lumber company started police and firemen on a search for a "firebug" in May.

The most recent fire which the police chief said the youth admitted destroyed three stables at the Butler county fairgrounds.

FLORIDA-BOUND

Snite, in 'Iron Lung' Hopes to Fly Back in Spring.

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Frederick B. Snite, jr., 27, who has been a "prisoner" in an iron lung for two and one-half-years, entrains today for his winter home at Miami, Fla., with a new objective—to fly back to Chicago in the spring.

If he continues the rapid progress he has made during the past year he'll be able to fly. He was stricken with infantile paralysis April 1, 1936 at Peiping, China. He has spent his time since then in a reclining position in the half-ton lung but by the best of medical care, he has made so much progress he can leave the lung for periods of from 25 to 30 minutes.

Now he has a new "breathing" shirt which not only permits him to sit up, but is 100 times lighter than his massive "boiler" outfit the weight of the iron lung prevents him from flying. The new lung, weighs only nine and one half pounds.

American 'Gabs' With King, Keeps Hands In Pockets

LONDON — (U.P.) — Robert J. Watt, American delegate to the international labor organization, who wore a blue suit and red necktie to Buckingham palace and stood with his hands in his pockets "gabbing" with King George, said today that he had been favorably impressed by both the king and Queen Elizabeth.

The king was interested in American unemployment and asked him whether it was decreasing, and Watt replied that it was, he said. The queen asked about President Roosevelt and "other intelligent questions showing a complete grasp of subjects."

He said the queen was "a most beautiful woman and her photographs do not do her justice."

With other delegates to the labor organization at Geneva who are visiting here, Watt accepted an invitation to the palace yesterday.

Before Watt got around to talking to the queen, someone whispered a few words in his ear and he kept his hands out of his pockets.

CUT RESTORED

Sandusky Police and Firemen Get Wage Adjustments.

SANDUSKY — (U.P.) — The city commission today voted to place police and fire departments back on the 1928 salary schedule, restoring the cut given the men during the depression years.

The restored salaries effective next year, means an increase of $11 to $25 a month, according to rank.

SAVAGE RAVAGE
By John C. Davis, Druggist

What is ordinarily termed "just a bad cold" produces the most devastating effects. Few savages of the jungle could devise more untamed torture than the freezing and the burning, streaming eyes and nose, the desolating, depressing effect on the spirits. Anyone with a bad cold is in misery until the siege is over.

There is a way to immunize yourself against colds. Once you fall a victim the family doctor can do little beyond a little relief and protection against what bad colds may lead to, but if you consult him in advance, he can advise you how to build up immunity by living habits, and by the use of serum.

All prescriptions for medication should be taken to a conscientious and trained druggist, there to have each ingredient blended with the others to form a perfect mixture.

THEATERS

SIDNEY TOLLER, veteran character actor, has been selected to carry on the role of Charlie Chan in the series revolving around the Oriental detective Toler did excellent work as the Oriental father in an Anna May Wong picture. He is the 36th actor to try out for the mantle of the late Warner Oland who created the Charlie Chan role on the screen. Toler, however, hopes to be able to play other roles along with this serial work.

"Girls' School"

A fashionable girls' school is the background for the picture which opens at the Madison Wednesday for a two-day showing, with Nan Grey, Anne Shirley and Ralph Bellamy in leading roles. There is no definite plot, rather a continuity that runs through one day at the school, starting early in the morning when one of the girls climb in through the window and finishing with an elopement that night.

Lives Up to Reputation.

"You Can't Take It With You" is bringing in the cash customers at the Ohio this week, first because the picture comes with a reputation for all-round merit, and second, because it more than fulfills its reputation. The picture combines tears with hearty guffaws, unlike the stage play which was all comedy. Lionel Barrymore, who is ill in Hollywood, will be long remembered for his role.

Gets Start In WPA.

Gloria Dickson is one player who isn't going to repudiate her dramatic alma mater, the Federal Theater Project of the WPA. She was working in a tent show at $1.50 a performance when the WPA theater offered her theatrical salvation. She's a tall, stately blond, and plays the role of the "meanie" wife in "Secrets of An Actress" at the Majestic. Kay Frances is the star, with Ian Hunter and George Brent supporting her.

Waterfront Reporter.

When a reporter slips out to sea in a small boat to meet an incoming ship in order to scoop the other papers, it looks like a break for him. But in "The Night Hawk" the breaks are all against him for just as he is ready to leave the ship it is placed under quarantine. Robert Livingston, June Travis and Robert Armstrong are in this film at the Park. "King Kong" is also shown.

VENDOL MADE HER STOMACH MISERY ONLY A MEMORY
Wooster lady could hardly get breath after any exercise, heart fluttered, felt giddy. Says new medicine is wonderful.
It is generally acknowledged that troubles in the stomach are about the most common ails of the body, and which may often lead to more serious conditions than most anything else, yet they are passed over lightly and given but little heed. Here is a woman who tells how she got splendid relief from such troubles and hopes others will benefit by her public statement.

MRS. EMMA LEVERS
"Gas on my stomach was causing such misery I was almost frantic. I couldn't take even a short walk without having to stop on the street to rest and get my breath. The least little exertion had me breathing heavily and made me feel giddy, like I might faint At night as I lay in bed, the gas pressure was so bad that my heart would thump-thump-thump until I thought it would jump out of my body. Besides the gas, I also had a severe burning in my stomach and seemed like a lump would rise in my throat.
"I want to give my praise to Vendol for the grand relief it brought. It acted so nicely to relieve my constipation and now I never have any signs of gas, shortness of breath, dizziness or headaches. I enjoy sound, refreshing sleep and just feel better in every way since taking this splendid medicine."
If you, who read this, suffer like this lady did, don't put it off. Come to Weinberger's Drug Store, 32 N. Main St., and let the Vendol Man explain all about this medicine and hear how it will help you. Most all leading druggists now sell Vendol.
